WILLKIE CONCEDES DEFEAT; ROOSEVELT TAKES 36 STATES

Democrats Sweep Into County Offices

Take 9 Posts In Courthouse; GOP Wins One

Cramer, Republican, Winner In Race for Probate Judge; Robinson Tops Both Tickets to Win as Sheriff; Vote Hits Record of 36,180.

By VIRGIL A. STANFIELD

Winning nine of 10 county offices by margins up to 7,456 votes, Democrats retained control of the Richland county courthouse in yesterday's election. The county cast a record vote of 36,180, about 4,000 more than in 1936.

Every office from the two county commissioner posts to coroner was captured easily by the Democratic candidates, three of whom were re-elected. Four others who are already holding county offices or serving as deputies were swept into office in the Tuesday voting.

In the face of the avalanche of Democratic votes in the county, Gov. John W. Bricker carried the county by more than 2,500 votes, increasing his margin of two years ago by 700 votes. Mayor Harold H. Burton of Cleveland, Republican winner of the U. S. senatorial race, also carried the county, but by only 323 votes.

In one of the two close races, Stuart H. Cramer, Mansfield attorney, a Republican, was elected probate judge by 604 votes over Prosecutor Glenn W. Marriott, Democrat. The vote was: Cramer, 15,676; Marriott, 15,072.

An even closer battle gave victory to John L. Catlett, G. O. P. candidate for state representative, by 600 votes over Atty. Leslie Wagner, Democrat.

By winning the probate judge post, the Republicans hold onto their only county office. Judge C. J. Anderson, the Republican incumbent, has held the office for the past eight years.

Cramer was elected to his first public office. He sought the Republican nomination for congress in the 17th district several years ago, but was unsuccessful.

Easily leading both tickets in the county, Frank E. Robinson, present chief deputy sheriff, was elected sheriff by a 7,456 majority, defeating Ralph Schad, jr., son of a former Richland county sheriff. Complete unofficial returns gave Robinson 21,042 votes to 13,586 for Schad. Robinson is a Democrat.

Winning his second term as county commissioner, Guy Stewart of Lucas polled the largest vote in a field of four candidates for the two commissioner post. Re-elected with him by almost as large a majority was Ray Hout, Mifflin township, who also has served one term. Both are Democrats.

Stewart and Hout defeated Harry Orewiler, Sharon township trustee, and Cyrus L. Shoup of Plymouth township, Republicans. The unofficial vote was: Stewart, 18,769; Hout, 18,323; Orewiler, 15,557; Shoup, 13,964. Stewart had a lead of 3,212 over Orewiler, the top G. O. P. candidate, while Hout's margin was 2,766 votes. C. L. Mitchell, also a Democrat, is the hold-over commissioner.

In a contest between two candidates for county prosecutor with the same last names, Harold T. Lutz, incumbent assistant prosecutor, won handily over Richland county "went along" with the rest of the state backing Gov. John W. Bricker for re-election, it was shown today on the basis of unofficial returns, but the county expressed a preference for Democrats in other state offices.

With tabulation of ballots completed with unusual slowness due to a record breaking vote Bricker piled up a 2,500 plurality over

City's One-Mill Levy Lost, Barely Given Majority

Mansfield voters cast a decisive "no" vote in Tuesday's election to reject the one-mill levy proposed to finance the improvement of municipal services.

Barely gaining a majority, the levy fell eight per cent short of the 65 per cent needed for passage.

Unofficial returns from the city's 50 precincts gave 8,922 votes for the levy and 8,129 against it.

The levy received only a 52 per cent affirmative vote despite the active campaign that had been waged in behalf of the issue.

The defeat came as more or less of a surprise to supporters

Old Tradition Smashed With 3rd Term Vote

President Holds Advantage In Major Ballot States for Electoral Total of 468 Against His Opponent's 63.

(By Associated Press)

President Roosevelt, the precedent-breaker, smashed one of America's most ancient traditions today with a dramatic and sweeping victory in his battle for a third term.

His election was conceded in mid-morning by Wendell L. Willkie, his dogged, hard-hitting Republican opponent, who had made the third term question one of the two outstanding issues of a slam-bang campaign.

At 10:30 a. m., in New York, Willkie's press secretary, Lem. Jones, announced a congratulatory telegram had been sent to Roosevelt.

The full extent of the president's victory could not be measured finally in advance of a more complete tabulation of the votes of several states.

Nevertheless, at 10:45 a. m., it appeared that his election had been accomplished with 468 of the country's 531 electoral votes. The number required for election is 266. Indications were that his popular plurality would prove considerably less than the margin of more than 10,000,000 by which he was elected in 1936.

In addition to a substantial lead in New York, the president held the advantage in Pennsylvania, Ohio, Missouri, Minnesota, New Jersey, California, and Illinois, among others. Willkie was leading in nine states: Colorado, Iowa, Indiana, Kansas, Maine, Nebraska, North Dakota, and Vermont. The nine have 63 electoral votes.

Helped along by the president's sweep, Democrats kept control of both the house and senate.

With returns in many congressional districts still incomplete, the Democrats were certain of 237 house seats—19 more than the 218 needed for a bare majority—Republicans were sure of 114 and the American Labor party one. At this point Democrats had won 17 house seats now held by Republicans and Republicans had captured six house seats now held by Democrats, giving the Democrats a net gain of eleven.

Among the Republican house members who won re-election was Rep. Joseph W. Martin, jr., of Massachusetts, the party's national chairman.

Control of the senate was hardly in doubt because Democratic holdovers and unopposed candidates in the South were almost sufficient to assure a majority. However, in the face of incomplete returns, 16 Democrats and eight Republicans were sure of election to senate seats. In four of these races the outcome represented a shift from one party to the other. Combined, these shifts gave the Republicans a net gain of two.

ONWARD: FDR Tells Crowd New Deal to Press Policies

HYDE PARK, N. Y.—(INS)—Franklin D. Roosevelt, swept into an unprecedented third term by another seeming landslide, assured the American public early today that New Deal policies of the last eight years would be pressed for the coming four.

Shortly before his Republican opponent Wendell Willkie went to bed refusing to concede the election, the president told a howling torchlight parade of his Dutchess county supporters that he intended to carry on for a third, and promised final term in the White House.

"I don't need to tell you that we face difficult days in this country but I think you will find me in the future just exactly the same Franklin Roosevelt that you have known for a great many years," the chief executive, surrounded by his family, declared.

Although he remained up until 2:45 a. m. tabulating the returns that showed the country had given him his requested vote of confidence, the president announced that at noon today he would dedicate the new postoffice in his home village of Hyde Park. What he may say at this homely scene probably will give a further indication of campaign promises to keep the nation at peace by speedy rearmament.

Mr. Roosevelt closed his campaign for a third term with a

In the six counties, McGregor polled 67,689 votes with only four precincts of 378 in the district missing. Lutz polled 53,690 in the same number of precincts.

COLUMBUS—Ohio stood fast for President Roosevelt and a third term today, but it gave Republican Gov. John W. Bricker a record plurality for re-election and chose Cleveland's Republican mayor, Harold H. Burton, for the U. S. senate.

Mr. Roosevelt led Wendell L. Willkie by about 120,000 votes.

With only 7,567 precincts in, however, Governor Bricker, the first Republican chief executive to succeed himself since 1901 in Ohio, led Martin L. Davey, former Democratic governor, by 248,361 votes.

The record plurality was established when Myers Y. Cooper beat Davey by 248,787 votes in 1928, but the number of precincts yet to report in the Bricker-Davey race made it a virtual certainty that Bricker's lead would exceed the plurality of 12 years ago.

The governor was carrying 76 of the 88 counties and lost only Cuyahoga and Mahoning, among the eight largest urban counties to his opponent.

With the same number of returns counted Mayor Burton held a lead of 93,857 votes over John McSweeney, of Wooster, the Democratic candidate, who had conceded his defeat earlier in the day. He was ahead in 70 counties, but trailed McSweeney in his home county, Cuyahoga, and in Mahoning, Montgomery and Stark among the metropolitan sections.

President Roosevelt won only 36 of the 88 counties, but his strength in those counties most of which were among the "big eight" or semi-urban ones, was too much for Willkie votes in rural Ohio to overcome.

The president's plurality was greater than in his first election when the carried Ohio by 212,210 votes, but far below the 619,265 plurality of 1936.

Several traditionally Democratic rural counties bolted and went Republican this year.

Ohio again was on the side of

COUNTY GIVES FDR 993 EDGE

Roosevelt Polls 18,655 Votes To 17,662 For Willkie In Richland Precincts.

Following its custom of voting with the winner, Richland county yesterday gave President Franklin D. Roosevelt a 993 majority over Wendell L. Willkie, his Republican opponent, in the president's third term victory sweep.

That lead, however, was less than one-eighth of the margin President Roosevelt piled up in the county four years ago when he topped Republican Alfred M. Landon by 8,850 votes.

Complete unofficial figures for the 92 county precincts gave the president 18,655 votes to Willkie's 17,662. In 1936, President Roosevelt defeated Landon in the county, 20,020 to 11,220.

The lead in the county's presidential race changed several times during the count and at one time early in the evening Willkie was ahead by more than 200 votes.

BULLETIN

HYDE PARK—(AP)—Franklin D. Roosevelt, choice of his countrymen to be their president for a third term, accepted with "sincere thanks" today a message from Wendell L. Willkie congratulating him on his re-election.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK—Wendell L. Willkie today telegraphed President Roosevelt congratulations on his re-election.

At 10:30 a. m., Willkie's press secretary, Lem. Jones, gave out the text as follows:

Franklin D. Roosevelt,
President of the United States,
Hyde Park, New York.

Congratulations on your re-election as president of the United States. I know that we are both gratified that so many American citizens participated in the election. I wish you all personal health and happiness.

Cordially,
Wendell L. Willkie.

STILL IN RED

City's General Fund To Go Up When Taxes Are Received.

The city's general fund received $9,355 yesterday but it is still in the red $19,795.

This was disclosed by City Auditor Paul L. Kelley who said the city received the funds from the state in liquor license fees reducing a $29,150 deficit that amount.

He pointed out, however, that the fund would be bolstered substantially within the next few days from the second half year property tax receipts which he estimated will total about $70,000.

The funds are all anticipated revenues and will go toward meeting operating costs during the balance of the year.

SALEM, Ore.—(U.P.)—In order to prevent any possible grade-crossing accidents to school buses, the State Superintendent of Public Instruction has ordered a flagman at every rail crossing in the state. The flagmen will be schoolboy passengers on each bus, who will dismount at crossing and wave the vehicle through.

The first "Stop, Look and Listen" railroad sign was drawn in 1884 in San Francisco.

Congratulations, Messrs. Roosevelt and Wallace

America has spoken. It's betting its future on you and it's backing you 100%.

Here's to you and UNITY.

Here's to that grand old flag we all love better than life itself.

May heaven give you both the courage, strength and judgment to guide America along the paths of righteousness, liberty and opportunity.

That is the prayer tonight at American bedsides . . . to which we add . . .

SURVEYS INDICATE PROPER LIGHTING COSTS BUT LITTLE

Eyesight lost is a priceless possession gone forever—but eyesight-protecting light conditioning is now so cheap that no one can afford bad lighting. Some of these facts are almost hard to believe, but recent surveys made by a group of lighting experts prove that.

For less than the cost of one daily newspaper you can read it all evening by the sight-saving, comfortable light of an I. E. S. reading lamp.

A couple of aspirin tablets usually relieve a headache, but a lot of headaches can be prevented if you use a 100-watt bulb in your reading lamp, and this costs about half a cent an hour to burn.

For about half of what it costs to keep a cigaret burning and for an equal length of time you can keep all lights burning in a completely light conditioned living room — (four sight-saving type floor, table, or wall lamps and a light conditioned ceiling fixture). That's real economy, isn't it?

For a quarter you can buy half a haircut—but for a quarter you can also enjoy a WHOLE MONTH of reading in bed (two hours a night) by the light of a handy wall lamp. With these new efficient wall lamps, reading in bed is no longer bad for the eyes, and you can have perfectly-balanced lighting for this universally-enjoyed comfort.

One extra slice of bread, and better light at the dinner table both cost about the same. But only one person can eat that bread and the whole family enjoys the better light.

The difference between poor lighting and 150-watt lamp in your kitchen often means the difference between drudgery and delight in preparing a meal. And the difference in cost wouldn't be half a cent a meal

And when you stop to consider the new low prices on modern and efficient bulbs you will really realize that you can't afford to take chances with your eyes and the eyes of your children.

Lamp companies all over the country are sponsoring educational programs along the lines of light conditioning and eyesight conservation. These programs are really interesting and very beneficial to those who participate in them. Your local electric service company has many of these fine programs planned for you at no cost, so if your club or church group is worrying itself about speakers and illustrated lectures for its meetings this year you'll be pleased with the ones they have to offer.

ACCURATE TIMING IMPORTANT IN PREPARING DELICIOUS MEALS

Homemakers who pride themselves on the dinners they serve, know that one of the most important factors in cooking is the time element.

Undercooked or overcooked food can never have quite that delicious full-flavored taste that food cooked just the right length of time has. This is particularly true of pies, cakes, and other baked goods, although the element of time is equally important in preparing roasts, vegetables, and other foods.

Remembering the right time to take a cake out of the oven is not, in itself, such a difficult task. The thing that complicates matters is when some unexpected interruption takes the homemaker's mind from her cooking.

The angel food cake may go into the oven at two o'clock, but in the hour that elapses before the time arrives to take it out, many things might happen. An interesting story may become all-absorbing; making over an old dress may make time slip by unnoticed, friends may drop in unexpectedly, other things may happen.

What happens, then, to the angel food cake? It probably isn't forgotten completely, but even five or ten minutes too long in the oven can easily change a light, fluffy, melt-in-your-mouth cake, into a mediocre, chewey affair.

It is to eliminate such failures, and to make it unnecessary for the homemaker to think about time, until the right time, that inventive genius has produced modern electric clocks that take over the task of reminding you when it's time to do something.

For cooking, for example, they have been so ingeniously built, that a small hand can be set for any desired length of cooking time, and the clock will let you know when to take the cake out of the oven.

You don't have to figure out what time it will be in, say, one hour and thirty-five minutes, after 2:20 p. m. You simply set the small hand at one hour and thirty-five minutes and the clock rings automatically at 3:55 p. m.

You can entertain your friends, or concentrate on your book or sewing without glancing up nervously every few minutes to make sure that you are not allowing the cake to remain too long in the oven, and you can enjoy this freedom that an electric clock makes possible for practically nothing, for the cost of electricity to run an electric clock is only one cent for a week.

With all the automatic conveniences, such as electric mixers, roasters, cookers and timing devices, it seems that the day is not far removed when a poorly prepared meal will be a thing of the past. And the best part of it is the homemaker can prepare these better meals with less effort.

NEW PLAN OFFERS NOVEL WAY TO CO-ORDINATE DECORATION

A novel plan of coordinated home decoration involving color and style harmony in a wide selection of fabrics, furniture and furnishings, has just been developed.

Under this apparently fool-proof scheme, colors and pieces can be juggled to suit individual fancies. This comes from having related colors in all the fabrics, rugs, etc., adhering to one style of furniture, and from selecting everything with an eye to how it will blend with everything else. For instance, the blue in a figured drapery chintz echoes the blue of the striped chintz in a chair; a solid-color cotton picks up one of the tones of a pulsating plaid; the hues of a riotous floral cotton damask pop up again in a stripe.

Bedspreads, draperies, rugs, powder-table skirts, trimmings, wallpaper, bath and closet accessories, bedding, lamps, pictures—even china and glassware have been done in their coordinated colors so that any young bride can start from scratch and really decorate her home as she pleases without fear of costly mistakes. She can even obtain color samples for wall paint.

Harmony Gradually Achieved.

She can add to her furnishings as the family income permits, because the stores that feature it plan to keep a stock of everything on hand. Furthermore, prices have been planned to fit young budgets.

Many housewives, who cannot afford to redecorate an entire room or home, will take advantage of this coordinated plan to replace a piece of furniture from time to time, to change her drapes and upholstery, or to buy a new rug, with a long-term decorative scheme in mind. The most stimulating advantage in the scheme, for both young and old, is the feeling it gives a woman that she is her own decorator and the assurance that she can't go wrong.

The fabrics that have been selected for these master decorative schemes are outstandingly beautiful.

These modern schemes have been given appropriate names. For instance, "Carnival des Fleurs" describes a hand-printed chintz; "Still life," a floral cotton damask; "Resplendence," a hand-printed bouquet chintz; "Arabesque," a cotton satin stripe; "Paidony," a hand-woven cotton plaid

Mixer Reduces Kitchen Toil

The modern housewife can take the hard arm-tiring work out of cake-mixing, egg-beating and other food preparation jobs with one of the modern electric food mixers on display at the Electrical Appliance Festival opening tomorrow through Saturday at 54½ North Main street. They will also be demonstrated at the Festival. One of these modern mixers is shown in the picture above.

Here Are Ways To Cut Winter Fuel and Repair Bills

Procrastination is a quite general human trait, but there are some things—particularly around the house—which, according to heating experts, are best done at definite times.

Here are some of the things that you can do about the house that make for general winter economies:

Weatherstrip windows and doors to eliminate dust, stop rattles, and save fuel.

Caulk around windows and doors for the same reasons.

Install storm sash and storm doors to lower heating costs.

Then there are other pre-snow jobs that make for home operating economies, some of which are:

Clean gutters and downspouts so that dirt and fallen leaves will not freeze in gutters in winter and rot the metal.

Close all outside faucets so that they will not burst from freezing water.

Insulate all pipes that are subject to freezing.

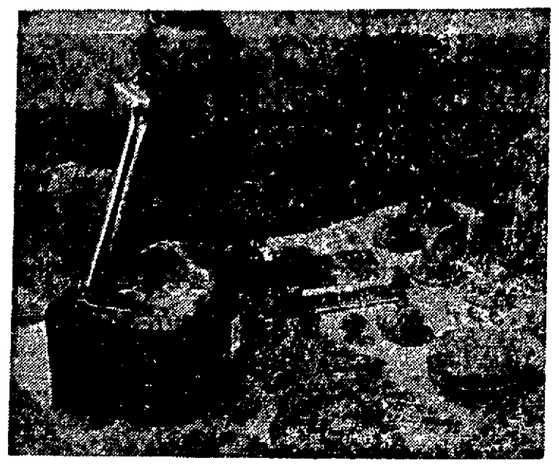
Install a new furnace blower-filter unit to lower fuel bills, keep your home cleaner, help to prevent colds, and eliminate drafts.

Clean and check the furnace—did you know that a layer of just 1-16th of an inch of soot in your furnace wastes 1-4th of your fuel?

Make sure that all hot air, hot water, or steam pipes are well covered.

Because of the possible savings in fuel and in future repair bills all these things should be done at the earliest possible moment.

Electric Roasters In Exhibit



Among the displays expected to be popular with housewives attending the Electric Appliance Festival will be that featuring electric roasters, such as the one shown in this picture. Housewives will learn how these roasters make meal preparation easier and eliminate guesswork.

'Time-Temp' Ends Doubt

Guesswork is eliminated by a new "Time-Temp" shelf, a major feature of the new "Roaster-Oven" just announced by the Westinghouse Electric & Manufacturing company.

The shelf, an exclusive dual-purpose feature of the new roaster, gives the user at a glance the correct temperature-setting and cooking time for all important foods such as fowl, meats, vegetables, etc. Made of sturdy chrome-plated steel, it slides easily in and out of the roaster base, and serves as a utility shelf when drawn part way out.

The time and temperature charts imprinted on the shelf with wear-resisting decalcomanias list proper cooking times and the temperature figure to which the "True-Temp" heat control of the roaster should be set for various types of foods.

Other features of the new Westinghouse roaster, according to H. B. Donley, Manager of the company's appliance section, are improvements to the exclusive "look-in" lid of the previous model, convenient lid-holders molded into each handle, and a newly-designed cabinet. The new signal light is longer and easily visible.

Devices Cut Heating Cost, Add Comfort

With winter just around the corner one of the important problems confronting every home owner is the matter of heating his home economically.

The purpose, of course, of heating the home is to make it comfortable. But how many times we succeed in making it anything but that. We get it either too warm or not warm enough.

A house that is too warm means that fuel is being wasted. Spotty heating usually results in wasted fuel, because, in trying to heat the cold spots the remainder of the room, or rooms, will quite possibly be overheated.

With the aid of a few simple devices both temperature and humidity can be controlled automatically.

The thermostat, with which most of us are familiar, is a temperature control device. It is small and inconspicuous, and is usually placed on the living room wall because that is the room in which we spend most of our time. However, many homes have more than one thermostat, one downstairs and one upstairs.

Operation Simple.

The operation of the thermostat is simple. An adjustable lever points to a scale of temperatures. This lever is set at the degree at which it is desired to keep the room temperature. If the room temperature drops below that desired point an electrical circuit is automatically closed, which puts into motion mechanism on the furnace that causes the fire to increase in intensity until the room temperature rises. When it has risen to the proper degree the electrical circuit is broken and the intensity of the fire is diminished.

By means of these and other simple automatic devices you can make your home much more comfortable throughout the winter; and at the same time actually make an appreciable savings in your fuel bills.

Blower-Filter Unit.

Another of these simple devices is the blower-filter unit. This simple unit can be attached to your present furnace, and takes up no more space than your electric refrigerator. It will, among other things, remove about 95 per cent of all the dust, dirt and other impurities that are constantly in the air which circulates through your house.

These blower-filter units are aids in saving money on cleaning bills, saving time and work in washing curtains and keeping other furnishings and furniture clean, and what is even more important allow you to have uniform heat throughout your house, no drafts, no cold spots, and no rooms with stifling temperatures. Also, they are very inexpensive to have installed on your present furnace.

Simple Adaptor Unit Vastly Improves Kitchen By Change of Lights

Of course, your kitchen probably isn't as dark as this, but even at that look at the picture below and compare the lighting with that of the kitchen above. Doesn't the simple change in the center ceiling fixture make all the difference in the world? Yet you can buy the adaptor unit complete in one piece and simply screw it into the existing fixture just as you would a light bulb. Notice, too, the interesting use of pin-to-wall lamps, the kind that you hang up just like a picture. They give excellent light over the range, working surface, sink, work surfaces, or wherever else you need to lighten dark corners.

Fifteen Uses For Electric Fans

Have you ever thought about what a really handy appliance an electric fan is as it works tirelessly, uncomplainingly in an effort to be of help to you? It is really remarkable how much comfort a small piece of mechanical equipment can give.

Here are fifteen different uses for an electric fan, which many of us really never give much thought, but which are generally just taken for granted in this modern age of convenient "gadgets" and time-saving devices:

1. The most important and greatest use is, of course, to keep a person cool during the hot weather months.
2. If you put the fan in the kitchen or bedroom window and point it out it will help to rid these rooms of odors.
3. In the dining room it causes a gentle circulation of the air which not only causes a sensation of coolness, but also actually makes the family enjoy their meals and eat more.
4. Placed in the bedroom where it will draw in the cool night air and keep it in circulation it helps to quicker and sounder sleep when the days have been warm and stuffy.
5. On the porch its steady stream of air will help a lot toward keeping away flies and other bothersome insects.
6. Do you have a hard time with your cake icings? Try turning the fan on them. You'll be surprised at how much more rapidly they'll harden.
7. On those rainy days when you can't hang the clothes outside and the sultriness makes them hard to dry inside, turn the fan on them.
8. When you wash your hair the fan will help dry it. Don't sit too close to it though.
9. If you have a separate laundry a fan will aid in getting rid of the steam and heat.
10. Do you ever get the urge to repaint the breakfast set, or other furniture? A fan makes them usable more quickly.
11. If your basement has a tendency to get damp after a heavy rain an electric fan will dry it out in a hurry.
12. In the Winter time, if you have a radiator heating system, a fan turned on the radiator will increase the speed of the heat radiation, heat the rooms quicker, and will keep the air in circulation so that you don't have "cold" spots in the rooms.
13. Placed near the bottom door of your furnace it will increase the draft and help the fire to draw more quickly.
14. If you are troubled with frost on your windows in Winter, a fan turned on them will keep them clear.
15. And incidentally, an electric fan will keep your kitchen cleaner becaues in forcing outside the odor laden steam and air which contains food grease, the walls and furniture won't need attention so often.

You see, an electric fan does have a lot of uses. And because they are light and easily carried you can use one everywhere.

Here's How To Enjoy Reading

The man above is enjoying his book thoroughly and safely, because he has hung a pin-to-wall lamp directly above the head of the bed. This handy lamp puts the light directly on the reading surface, without glare, and because it has a diffusing bowl it throws some light to the ceiling thereby providing the right amount of general light in the room to eliminate too much contrast between the printed page and the rest of the room.

New Lamps Will Transform Room

With a new season just around the corner, housewives start to think of ways of changing the appearance of their homes. Sometimes the change can be effected by the replacement of old furniture with new, more often by simply rearranging the old furniture.

An easy way to attain the desired change is through new lamps. Lamps can actually transform the entire character of the room in which they are located.

One of the most decorative as well as useful lamps which can be had today is the floor lamp which has a white silk or parchment shade, and a single bulb that will provide three different amounts of light. These lamps are equipped with a diffusing glass bowl which throws part of the light to the ceiling, giving a soft glow to the entire room, which makes it ideal for visiting or card playing, and eliminates the dark shadows in the room which are so hard on the eyes when reading.

With these lamps it is no longer necessary to strain the eyes by using the same amount of light for the widely different eye tasks which we encounter in our daily life. The light can be adjusted to fit the task. For conversational purposes the smallest amount of light is sufficient.

Electric Clock Answers Need

Running a household efficiently probably doesn't call for a split-second schedule, but still father wants to know that the clock on the mantel is right so that he doesn't start for the station on that big trip east at 8:32 when the train leaves at 8:30.

And mother is glad to have the correct time so that she doesn't have to hurry the meal because the clock is wrong. And the correct time is doubly important when you start the radio for that thrilling program for which you wait so eagerly.

To serve modern demands, electric clocks have been perfected and by simply plugging them in at any handy convenience outlet, a simple little motor keeps the clock running constantly without any attention or winding. More important, they keep accurate time. And the cost of electricity to run an electric clock is amazingly low—only about one cent for five days.

The modern mode of life requires that there be clocks in the home which are always right. The electric clock is the answer to this requirement.

Step-Savers.

Most homemakers are always on the lookout for ways and means to save unnecessary steps around the house, and many homes today are run with the same efficiency that characterizes a well-managed industrial plant.

But did you ever stop to think how many times during the day, when you wanted to know the correct time, you have had to go to another room to find out? Most homes have a living room clock on the mantel, but how convenient it would be to have a simple electric clock in the kitchen and bedroom as well.

NERVOUS TREND INVADES MART AFTER ELECTION

Selling Is Short-Lived and Comeback Starts; Bonds Are Mildly Mixed.

NEW YORK—Nervous selling hit the stock market today after Tuesday's national election recess but it was short-lived and a comeback soon got under way.

Gains of as much as a point or so were eventually shown for U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Douglas Aircraft and American Smelting.

Getting support were Youngstown Sheet, Anaconda, United Aircraft and Republic Steel.

Bonds and commodities were no worse than mildly mixed.

Brokers cited the strong business base as the principal sustaining market influence. Not much attention was paid to war news.

Market analysts studied forecasts in foreign trade circles that a marked expansion in American export shipments was likely in the near future.

A rapid setup in the movement of armaments, especially aircraft to Great Britain, was looked for, and additional export-import bank loans to Latin-America were being counted upon by observers to reverse the downward trend in sales to southern countries somewhat later.

EGYPTIANS HAD INCOME LEVIES

Tax Originated Along Nile Spread to Greece and Becomes Permanent.

WASHINGTON, Pa.—(U.P.)—The income tax dates back 3,500 years to ancient Egypt and was a colonial institution in this country, according to a Washington and Jefferson College instructor.

In his "History of the Income Tax," Instructor Reynol V. Ullom traced forms of the tax to 1580 B.C. From the Egyptian beginning, he wrote, it swept through Greece, Italy and various parts of Europe and was used in colonial Massachusetts in 1643.

The ancient Greece tax was based on an individual's ability to pay. Usually it was graft and political corruption that caused income levies to be repealed, the thesis said.

Massachusetts' income tax was to provide for common defense. Other colonies made similar levies. The first state income tax was levied by Pennsylvania in 1840. It was repealed 31 years later.

The Civil War brought income levies to a permanent basis in the United States, with practically every southern state imposing such taxes. The first Federal income tax law in 1862 imposed a 3 per cent tax on incomes from $600 to $10,000, and 5 per cent in excess of $10,000.

In 1865, it was raised to 5 per cent on incomes from $600 to $5,000 and 10 per cent in excess of $5,000. The following year a $1,000 exemption became effective but was replaced in 1871.

This levy was the form of legislation for 20 years, despite an 1871 Supreme Court ruling upholding constitutionality of taxes on incomes.

The next federal income law, in 1894, was invalidated by the Supreme Court on grounds it lacked representation and was of communistic nature.

Ullom closed his history with the ratification of the 16th Amendment in 1913. This amendment was the outgrowth of a bill introduced by Sen. Norris Brown, a Republican, in 1909.

VOTES 'DRY'

South Boulevards Ballots Out Sale of Intoxicants.

Residents of South Boulevards, new residential village south of Mansfield, yesterday voted out the sale of beer and hard liquor in a local option choice.

The vote was approximately 100 to 80 against the sale of beer and intoxicants within the village corporation limits.

Five issues were submitted to voters, covering the sale of beer and hard liquor by the package, by the glass, for consumption on or off the premises where sold, and the establishment of a state liquor store.

The liquor sale issue was brought to a vote after the Schwarz tavern on Lexington avenue changed hands and the new owner obtained a liquor permit.

CO-EDS SPONSOR KNITTING DRIVE

AUSTIN, Tex.—(U.P.)—Nu Epsilon Tau Tau, honorary inter-sorority group at the University of Texas, has sent letters to every junior American college to promote a national campus knitting campaign. All their knitting would be for the American Red Cross.

June Carr of Dallas, member of the knitting campaign committee, said the movement here "just sort of happened. We had a meeting and took a vote."

Members of the N. E. T. T. are working through their individual sororities to make the campaign nationwide.

DEFEAT ISSUE

Madison Electors Turn Down $290,000 School Proposal.

Madison township's proposed $290,000 bond issue for a school building program was defeated at Tuesday's election, but Shelby voters voted by a huge majority to continue a three-mill operating levy for schools.

Needing a 65 per cent majority for approval, the Madison bond issue received only 62 per cent of the votes, despite a vigorous campaign in behalf of the building program. The bonds would have provided funds for two new buildings and additions to three others.

The Shelby school levy received a four-to-one vote. The levy provides funds for paying teachers and keeping the school functioning. The vote was 3,297 for it and 777 against it.

COUNTY GIVES FDR 993 EDGE

Roosevelt Polls 18,655 Votes To 17,662 For Willkie In Richland Precincts.

Willkie carried 43 of the county's 92 precincts and won in Shelby by 119 votes. His supporters there credited an active Willkie club in the city with the good showing.

The G. O. P. candidate carried the First, Second, and Third wards in Mansfield, winning the normally Republican Second ward by a vote of 1,878 to 825. The Democratic Fifth ward and Madison townships five precincts gave the president his lead in the county.

Madison township, made up largely of Mansfield's surburban districts voted 2,195 to 1,159 for Roosevelt. He lead nearly three to one in the Fifth ward. Fifteen of the county's 27 rural and village precincts outside Madison township gave Willkie an edge, and South Boulevards, south of Mansfield, voted 124 to 91 for the former utility company head.

Rarely in the past 40 years has Richland county failed to go with the winner in presidential elections. The county generally is a better barometer of the trend in a national election than traditional Republican Maine.

When returns from Bloomingrove township in northern Richland county showed Willkie leading by 12 votes, an old-time resident of the township said it was the first time in his memory that a Republican presidential candidate carried the township's one precinct.

PLURALITY OF GOV. BRICKER SETS RECORD

Margin Over Davey Passing That of Myers Y. Cooper Scored in 1928.

the winner in the presidential election and thus maintained its record in that respect that has been unbroken since 1892.

For the first time, however, since the two major parties have been contending the state chose a Republican governor at the same time that it gave its 26 electoral votes for a Democratic president.

Bricker looked over congratulatory telegrams as he breakfasted at the executive mansion with Mrs. Bricker. He said, that although he had not received one from Davey his opponent might have addressed a message to the executive offices in the state house.

As for President Roosevelt's victory the governor ruefully remarked:

"He's the runningest guy I ever saw."

Among the minor state offices Lieut Gov. Paul M. Herbert, Columbus; Attorney General Thomas J. Herbert, Cleveland, and State Treasurer Don H. Ebright, Akron, led their Democratic rivals.

With reports in from 7414 precincts, however, John E. Sweeney, Democrat, Cleveland, led for secretary of state against Edward J. Hummell, Republican, Cincinnati. Democratic State Auditor Joseph T. Ferguson at this stage was beating out Joseph T. Tracy, Republican.

Secretary of State George M. Neffner was unopposed for election to the short term in that office. He ran as an independent.

It appeared that the Republicans might drop one place for congress-at-large.

Although George H. Bender, G. O. P., incumbent, was leading a field of four, Stephen M. Young, Democrat, Cleveland, held a narrow lead over L. L. Marshall, Euclid the other Republican member at large.

OLD TRADITION SMASHED WITH 3RD TERM VOTE

In great states and small, from New Hampshire to California, the citizens who exercised democracy's right of franchise yesterday seemingly rejected the Republican candidacy of Wendell L. Willkie by an overwhelming electoral majority and returned the New Deal to Washington with possibly greater power than heretofore.

The tide of ballots ran heavily in Mr. Roosevelt's favor almost from the first—ballots he had asked as a "vote of confidence" in his administration, born in the domestic crisis year of 1933 and now given another four-year tenure in the international crisis year of 1940.

After telling his followers in a post-midnight speech at his New York hotel not to be "afraid or disheartened," Willkie retired with the announcement that he would make no statement before mid-morning (10 a. m.)

But Sen. Charles L. McNary of Oregon, Willkie's vice presidential running mate, acknowledged defeat and sent his congratulations to Mr. Roosevelt and the Democratic vice presidential candidate, Henry A. Wallace.

"We shall try to afford Mr. Roosevelt and his associates a worthy and vigilant opposition," McNary said in a statement at Salem, Ore. "Today's trend indicates a victory for our principles four years hence."

Wallace, in Washington where he had watched his home state of Iowa stick tenaciously in the Republican column, said he was "gratified" at the early trend of voting, but he retired without other comment before the ticket on which he held second place swept to such commanding leads.

Indications were that the total vote cast broke all previous records despite unfavorable weather in some sections of the country. But the broken record which made this election unique was the return of a president to office for a third term.

The tradition which fell with Mr. Roosevelt's victory dated back almost to the founding of the republic when George Washington, in 1797, declined to stand for another four years in office in addition to the eight he already had served.

of the proposal, since there had been no organized opposition to the plan.

Observers today expressed belief that the overwhelming negative vote might be due, in part at least, to an unwillingness on the part of the voters to accept new taxes in the face of impending national defense taxes.

The levy failed to receive more than a bare majority in any of the six wards, suffering crushing blows in the Fourth and Sixth wards.

The measure carried in the First, Second, Third and Fifth wards.

If the levy would have carried approximately $57,000 annually for five years would have been provided for financing increased operations in five city departments.

The fire and police department would have obtained badly needed manpower and fire fighting equipment; supervised playgrounds would have been returned for Mansfield children; city parks would have received rehabilitation and facilities at the municipal airport would have been improved.

Roller Skates Worn By Employes To Speed Stock Work

PHILADELPHIA—(INS)—Speeding service and saving wear and tear on employes by putting them on roller skates is the novel idea adopted successfully by an automotive concern in Philadelphia.

Company executives looked aghast at the vast amount of floor space to be covered when United Motors Service opened a stock room in North Philadelphia. Then was born the idea of putting stock room workers on wheels.

The floor could be covered quickly and efficiently by skaters who otherwise would have to walk to far-away bins and shelves to get desired articles. Now the fast-moving workers are part of each staff in all of the company's branches.

The skaters work out their own signals to avoid collision, whistling when darting out one row to a "main street." A strict rule keeps the cement floor clean of twine and waste to eliminate bad spills.

Sets Plurality Record

former Gov. Martin L. Davey, Democratic candidate.

Unofficial returns from the county's 92 precincts gave Bricker 19,036 and Davey 16,496. In the state Bricker lead by a 270,000 majority on the basis of returns from 6,736 of Ohio's 8,675 precincts.

The former governor, seeking a third term, trailed Bricker while the county gave President Roosevelt nearly a 1,000-vote majority.

This was in sharp contrast to the 1936 election when Davey rode into the governor's office on Roosevelt's coattails with a large majority.

Although Davey held a 100 vote advantage in the city's 50 precincts, Bricker carried the first, second and third wards, piling up a three to one majority in the second.

Davey took the fourth ward with a safe margin and the fifth ward Democratic stronghold voted two to one to return him to office.

Returns gave Davey 1,591 in the city and Bricker 1,468.

The governor rolled up his lead in Shelby by carrying all four wards and in the rural district where he edged the advantage.

While the balance of the state was voting Republican for state officers, Richland county indicated a choice of Democratic officials.

Harold H. Burton, Republican mayor of Cleveland, who was leading the U. S. senatorial race over his Democratic opponent, John McSweeney of Wooster, gained a slight margin in Richland.

Unofficial returns gave him 16,858 and McSweeney 16,535.

Returns from 6,803 of Ohio's 8,675 precincts gave Burton 1,131,500 and McSweeney 1,051,734.

Richland countians took a Democratic stand on their choice for congressmen-at-large giving Francis Durbin of Lima and Stephen Young of Cleveland the majorities.

The rest of the state, however, split on its choice, late returns showing George H. Bender, Cleveland Republican, and Young ahead, over L. L. Marshall and Durbin.

Incomplete returns from 6,652 of the state's 8,675 precincts gave Bender 1,069,241, Young 1,027,652, Marshall 979,747, Durbin 775,432.

On the basis of the same returns State Auditor Joseph T. Ferguson was leading his Republican opponent Joseph T. Tracy by a slight edge.

The returns gave Ferguson 1,071,881 and Tracy 1,040,667.

Don H. Ebright, Republican state treasurer, and Clarence H. Knisley, former Democratic treasurer, were running a close race. Ebright had 1,057,005 and Knisley 1,037,651.

Other votes on the basis of incomplete returns from 6,652 precincts gave:

Lieutenant governor—Paul M. Herbert (R) 1,137,850; Robert S. Cox (D) 996,533.

prayer for national unity regardless of the outcome, but he could not overcome the jubilation of Elmer Van Wagoner, Hyde Park supervisor, who introduced him to the midnight torchlight parade that signalized the establishment of a new precedent in American politics. Van Wagoner exclaimed:

"You have heard of Washington, Lincoln, Jefferson, Jackson and Wilson but here is the greatest American of them all—if you don't believe me, ask John L. Lewis or Wendell Willkie."

No announcement was made before the president finally retired but it was expected he would head back to Washington almost immediately. Consistently throughout the campaign he insisted that dangerous trends in the European war made it inadvisable for him to be away from the White House for more than a day or so, and never beyond a twelve-hour traveling distance.

Interspersed with the election returns that established him as one of the outstanding figures in American political history, Mr. Roosevelt kept in touch with Secretary of State Hull on developments abroad.

The New Deal policies that he intends to push were proclaimed by the president in his last-minute campaign speeches in New York, Philadelphia, Boston, Dayton, Cleveland and other points east of Ohio.

Not satisfied with one demonstration at midnight in the driveway of his family home, another parade marched on Hdye Park house a little more than half an hour later, and for a second time President and Mrs. Roosevelt came out on the porch to receive their acclaim.

"Mrs. Roosevelt and my mother are very happy; God bless you," the smiling chief executive concluded his final appearance and bowed the crowd to excuse him so he could answer a multitude of phone calls.

MENACE BIRDS

Vicious Hawks Prey On Wild Ducks and Geese.

DALHART, Tex.—(U.P.)—Ducks and geese which once came by the hundreds of thousands to the wildlife refuge on the famous XIT ranch are falling prey to vicious hawks.

Mrs. R. L. Duke established the refuge at Buffalo Springs, north of here, when her husband was general overseer of XIT, at one time a 3,000,000-acre ranch. The refuge was operated in the early 30's and nearly a million ducks and geese stopped there on their migration annually.

Their protection ended when Mrs. Duke left the ranch after her husband's death. The pools remain and the birds continued to stop there.

The chicken hawks, fierce fighters of the plans, now have made Buffalo Springs their headquarters.

Milk Mixtures For Stomach Ulcers

A recent medical discovery now being used by doctors and hospitals everywhere has proven unusually successful in the treatment of stomach ulcers caused from excess acid. It is a harmless preparation yet so effective that in many cases the pains of stomach ulcers disappear almost immediately after it is used. Also recommended for gas pains, indigestion and heartburn due to hyperacidity. Sufferers may now try this at home by obtaining a bottle of Lurin from their druggist. Lurin contains this new discovery in its purest form. Easy to take. Just mix two teaspoonfuls in a half glass of milk. Costs but little and sold under an absolute guarantee that it must satisfy or money refunded. Lurin for sale by Weinberger's and drug stores everywhere.

Lutz carried Richland, his home county, by a margin of nearly 3,000, but after a close race in Ashland county, McGregor tied the race up on the basis of Coshocton county returns, ran more than 4,000 ahead in Licking county and again more than 4,000 ahead in traditionally Republican Delaware county.

McGregor, who lives in West Lafayette, Coshocton county, was the winner in a special election in November, 1939, called to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Congressman William A. Ashbrook. He will start his second term in January. He is a former speaker of the Ohio house of representatives.

Customs Agents Attempt to End Gem Smuggling

PHILADELPHIA —(U.P.)— Philadelphia customs officials and the Coast Guard are guarding the Delaware River from Philadelphia to the Breakwater against alleged diamond smuggling by war refugees.

Customs officials refused comment, but it was reported Netherlands and Northern France refugees are flooding the United States diamond markets with valuable uncut diamonds.

To combat the suspected smuggling, the Coast Guard opened 11 short-wave stations along the river, enabling them to conduct ship-to-share conversations and to receive instructions from the Philadelphia headquarters.

NEWSMAN DIES

CINCINNATI —(U.P.)— Howard Lee McEwen, 53, editor in radio station WLW's newsroom from 1935 to 1938, died last night of a heart ailment. The radio newsman's first newspaper job was with the Cincinnati Post, where he was hired as a police reporter by O. O. McIntyre.

Theodore Lutz, former Shelby law director, Harold Lutz, a Democrat, polled 19,314 votes to 15,058 for the Shelby man, a majority of 4,256 votes.

County recorder Howard Wenning, Democrat, will move to the clerk of court's office after the first of the year. He defeated James Brownscombe, Mansfield Republican, by 4,126 votes. The vote gave Wenning 19,209 to Brownscambe's 15,083.

Wening will be succeeded as recorder by Don D. Orewiler, Democrat, who held a 3,592 margin over L. L. Kockenderfer, the Republican candidate. Completet returns gave Orewiler 18,569 to 14,977 for Kochenderfer.

Another deputy who will step up as the result of yesterday's Democratic landslide was Charles C. Payne, of Shelby, who was elected treasurer over Ralph A. Hughes, Mansfield municipal court clerk. It was Hughes' third unsuccessful attempt to win the treasurer's job. He lost in 1930 and again in 1934. Payne has been chief deputy under Treasurer John E. Kolb.

Third Term Winner.

The county's only third-term winner was Engineer Howard C. Sword, Democrat, who kept his office by polling 18,512 votes to 16,048 for his Republican opponent, Kenneth Shaffer. It was Shaffer's second defeat as a candidate for county engineer.

Winner in the county coroner race was Dr. Lewis B. McCullough, young Mansfield physician, who defeated Dr. Francis M. Wadsworth, Republican, of Mansfield by more than 3,000 votes. Dr. McCullough's total was 18,533 to 14,887 for Dr. Wadsworth. Dr. McCullough will succeed Coroner Hugh Winbigler.

The new copnty officials will serve four-year terms under a new state law. All of them except the probate judge and treasurer will take office Jan. 1. The probate judge will start his term in February, while Payne will not succeed his "boss" as treasurer until next September.

Meters Near, City Council Revises Parking Limits

ONE-HOUR ZONE ESTABLISHED IN DISTRICT

Territory Inside of Fourth, Diamond, Second, Mulberry Streets In Area.

Preparing for installation of parking meters on downtown streets, city council last night revised the municipal traffic code establishing new parking limits.

A one-hour limit was established for the territory bounded by Fourth street, Diamond street, Second street and Mulberry streets, but not including Mulberry street.

A uniform two-hour zone was set up outside the one-hour district including the area between Fifth street, Franklin avenue, First street and Mulberry streets.

Half-hour zones include Walnut and North Main streets between Fourth street and West Temple court, while a 10-minute zone was established alongside the postoffice on North Mulberry street.

The parking limits will be enforced from 8 a. m. until 6 p. m. daily except Saturday when they will extend until 9 p. m. No limit is set up on Sundays and holidays.

In addition, the legislators approved a measure restricting parking on the south side of West Fourth street from North Mulberry to the city limits, and on the south side of Grace between Newman and Wayne streets.

The West Fourth street restriction was set up at the request of the war department which has asked municipalities to put the ban into effect on city thoroughfares, designated as military highways under 40 feet in width.

Council paved the way for construction of sanitary sewers on five streets, approving ordinances calling for the improvements on sections of Parkview and Poplar streets, Overlook and Lawnsdale avenues and Grover street.

Legislation was also approved for the grading and graveling of Marlow road from Maple street to Maple lake park, the work to be done, however, next spring.

Preliminary legislation authorizing construction of a sanitary sewer on Linden road and Paxford place was also passed.

After repealing an ordinance passed in January, 1937, appropriating $2,700 for the city's share of a WPA landscaping project at the sewage treatment plant, the legislators put their approval on an appropriation of $1,469, the balance in a WPA construction fund, to finance the work with city labor.

YOUNG VOTER DISILLUSIONED

ASHLAND—The youngest person to vote here today was Harry Hershey, a six year old boy in the first grade of Arthur street school. Entering the voting booth of 4th ward, precinct A, his father's precinct, he announced he wanted to vote for Willkie.

Board members gave him a paper. He entered the booth and made an X and returned it to the clerk, apparently satisfied. Upon his arrival home he said, "I am mad. When I voted for Willkie they didn't give me a regular ballot, just a piece of paper with some numbers on."

ASHLAND BACKS CITY BUILDING BOND PROPOSAL

$230,000 Issue For Municipal Auditorium Approved By 83 Per Cent Vote.

ASHLAND—A $230,000 bond issue for a new municipal building and public auditorium was passed yesterday by Ashland voters by a decisive margin.

Needing 65 per cent of the vote for adoption, the bond issue in 17 of the city's 19 precincts mustered a vote of 5,331 against 1,043 or 83 per cent.

Authorities said there was little likelihood that the two precincts unreported this morning would change the result.

The new building is to be constructed on the site of the condemned city opera house at Main and Center streets. Besides providing office room for all departments of the city, it is expected to be a source of revenue through present plans of city council to lease the auditorium for 25 years.

Lease bids already offered indicate the bonds and interest will be paid by the theater rental, city officials said.

Six Reupblicans and one Democrat were re-elected in yesterday's county balloting, 45 out of 50 precincts reporting this morning indicated.

The Republicans and their defeated Democratic opponents and vote totals were: county commissioner, Clayton L. Harmon, (R) 6659, A. L. Daniels, (D) 6078; clerk of courts, Charles A. McBride, (R) 7130, Ray E. Kiplinger, (D) 6449; sheriff, L. Dale Hammond, (R) 7707, Perry R. Welch, (D) 5374; recorder, Ralph H. Maffett, (R) 7470, Arthur C. Dorland, (D) 6014; treasurer, Karl K. Kick, (R) 8447, Ray Koontz, (D) 5470; and engineer, L. G. Shenberger, (R) 7231, Edwin M. Kerr, (D) 6720.

George M. Emory, (D) was re-elected coroner without opposition. A. Ross Siverling, (R) had no opposition for prosecutor.

Other results: Commissioner, H. F. Wallett, (R) 7349, Don Spreng, (D) 6425; state representative, J. P. Hunter, (R) 6738, J. F. Church, (D) 6525.

Ashland county's complete 50 precinct vote for president was: Willkie, 8609, Roosevelt, 7832.

WOMAN VOTES AT 96 YEARS

Considers It Duty 'To Young People' In Preservation of Freedom.

ASHLAND—Mrs. Amelia Kyle, 96, perhaps the oldest voter in Ashland county, said just prior to voting, "It won't make much difference to me how the election goes for I won't be here very long but I'll do my bit for the younger people. I want them to enjoy the same freedom I have had. I want to vote every time."

Mrs. Kyle has help in doing her housework but she still enjoys washing dishes and doing anything her strength will permit. She is alert and greatly interested in all civic activities. She is a native of Ashland county, the last of a family of seven children of Mr. and Mrs. George Palmer.

Her husband, Samuel Kyle, a Civil war veteran who founded the Armstrong Post, G. A. R., at Hayesville, died in 1921, seven years after the death of their daughter, Mrs. Mary Pollock. The three sons, George, Arthur and Charles, have died since. The only remaining members of her family are eight grandchildren.

NURSES' HOME LEVY FAILS BY ONLY 24 VOTES

Two GOP Judicial Candidates Break Through Democratic Defense In Holmes.

MILLERSBURG — Holmes county voted Democratic again polling a majority for President Roosevelt, Martin L. Davey for governor and gave all other state and county Democratic candidates safe majorities, it was shown today on the basis of complete but unofficial returns.

A proposed levy for the benefit of the Millersburg hospital was deefated 3,863 to 2,167, lacking the required 65 per cent majority by 24 votes on the basis of unofficial returns. It was to provide funds for building a nurses' home and other improvements.

Despite the Democratic sweep in the state and county tickets, Holmes voters did cross over the party column to give the two Republican judicial candidates a majority. They were Edward C. Turner for state supreme court and Robert B. Putnam for court of appeals.

They gave President Roosevelt a vote of 3,347 against 3,198 for Willkie; Davey, 3,552 votes against 3,037 for Bricker in the race for governor.

County contest winners were: State representative A. Lee Fair (D) 3,460, H. D. Williamson, (R) 2883; county commissioner, two to be elected, Frank Engel (D), 3593, William L. Young (D) 3,593, and H. L. Eolgamott (R) 2,571; prosecuting attorney, W. C. Pyers (D) 3,207, Curtis C. Martin (R) 2,800; sheriff, Harry R. Weiss (D) 3,690, Leslie O. Smith (R) 3,011.

Unopposed for election were Keith K. Kaser (D) county clerk; Grover A. Hoyman (D) recorder; Mrs. Ruby Walter (D), treasurer; Karl Snyder (D) county engineer.

In Holmesville, a one-mill levy proposed to install street lighting was defeated 128 to 56.

PATRIOTIC SONG FEST STAGED AT COLLEGE ON ELECTION DAY

ASHLAND — An election day program of patriotic songs was given by the Ashland college chapel choir to the students of the college Tuesday. Mrs. W. M. Garrigus, director of the choir, acted as commentator on the program.

The first song in the group was "Yankee Doodle" to which, Mrs. Garrigus explained, the militia marched in the Revolutionary war. She said that though the words of the song are meaningless the tune is catchy.

Next the choir sang "Hail Columbia" which was written as inaugural march for George Washington. The words, the choir directress said, were written later than the tune.

From the War of 1812 came the greatest of all American songs, the national anthem, "The Star Spangled Banner," the next number sung by the choir. The students joined in on this song as they did on the "Battle Hymn of the Republic" by Julia Ward Howe, the most outstanding song of the Civil war period.

"Keep the Home Fires Burning" was the song of the World war period chosen by the choir. The program closed with the choir and students singing the most modern of American songs, "God Bless America" by Irving Berlin.

'COP' JAILED

Impersonator Finds Shield Doesn't Protect Him.

NEW YORK—(INS)—The urge to be a cop beat strongly in the breast of Clement Wuchichts, a 20-year-old laborer.

And when he found a policeman's shield, a short time ago, he felt half the battle had been won.

Police received reports that a youth, obviously too young to be an officer, had been displaying a shield in the subway. Investigating, a patrolman discovered Wuchichts in a mid-town street and started searching him. At the moment the police found the shield which had been reported lost, the youth landed a wild punch, sending the officer sprawling. The would-be cop was overpowered and taken to the bastile, and charged with impersonating an officer.

He's not so keen on the police career now.

GALION COUNCIL ACCEPTS TAX RATE FOR 1941 BUDGET FUNDS

GALION — A resolution accepting the tax rate as submitted by the county auditor for Galion's 1941 budget, was passed Tuesday night by city council. The rates will be .6 mills outside the .10 mill limit for the bond and retirement fund; 3.5 mills inside the .10 mill limit for the general fund to carry on operating expenses: .3 mills each for the firemen's and the policemen's pension funds, these inside the .10 mill limitation.

Rates are practically the same as 1940, with the exception that for operating expenses the rate is 4.1 mills. This will be .6 mills less for operating expenses in 1941.

Council also passed a supplementary appropriation ordinance for $302 to be taken from the water works fund for the city hall construction fund to pay for a few outstanding bills on furniture and other items.

The amount of $100 was transferred from the regular police appropriation to the fuel, light, and supplies fund in the police department, and another $250 was transferred from the park fund to the city hall fuel, light and supplies fund.

A petition was presented from property owners on West Church street asking for curb, gutters and hardsurfacing from Jefferson street intersection to the city limits, the work to be a WPA project. This was referred to the street committee.

The service director was authorized to proceed with the extension of the city light lines on West Payne avenue to comply with a petition presented at a recent council meeting.

Further consideration will be made of the matter of extending electric light service on the North Side road, as there are only a few consumers who would benefit by this extension.

GALION — At its November meeting, the Galion board of education passed a resolution accepting the rates for the 1941 budget. Bond and interest fund is $28,988.98, with 2.8 mills outside the 10 mill limitation for this fund; the general fund is $64,079.18 with 3.7 mills inside the 10 mill limit and 2.5 mills outside the 10 mill limitation. This makes a total of 9 mills, the same as was allowed for 1940. It is expected that $1,000 more will be received next year because of the increase in real estate valuations.

Clerk Harry Sanderlin reported a balance of $9,178.62 for No. 1, which compares to last year's balance at this time.

Bills approved for the month amounted to $1,000.

Some time was spent by the board in discussing the progress being made on repairs to the heating system at the Senior high school. Engineers in charge of the work, together with the school janitor, M. R. McCammon, met with the board to discuss the work.

Raland Ireland and Ralph Pollock were permanently appointed as janitors at the North and South schools, respectively. They had been serving temporarily after having been approved by the civil service commission.

MANSFIELD, OHIO, WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 6, 1940.

United Nation Can Go Forward

NOW that a substantial majority of voters have declared in favor of continuing Franklin D. Roosevelt in the presidency for another four years, the great task of all Americans is to act as a united people in recognizing the grave situation that confronts this nation, not alone in the peril of war but also in domestic problems that must be solved.

Foremost in its demand for immediate attention is the furtherance of the national defense program, coupled with more intensive efforts to aid Great Britain in its valiant battle for the survival of democracy in the world.

Coupled with this will be a continuance of the process of cementing the friendly relations and establishing the common aims of nations of the Western Hemisphere, so as to guard against infiltration of totalitarian influences and possible later establishing of Nazi, Fascist or Communist foothold in either North or South America.

With the election past there can now be a more realistic and less partisan attitude toward defensive action by the United States, in matters of increasing armament and manpower. Concentration of public thought on partisan problems in recent weeks has worked to the detriment of the more important national business of making ready to defend this country against any attack that may be made upon it.

For the present, at least, the overthrow of the third term precedent can be rather casually accepted as evidence of an obvious new trend of thinking on the part of a majority of Americans, with final determination of that issue to come at some later time.

As will be the effort throughout the country, The News-Journal urges upon its readers the vital importance of calm acceptance of the national verdict, a pledge of support to President Roosevelt in the course that he deems best for America, and a uniting of thought and action in behalf of preserving and improving the fine principles of human freedom upon which this great nation was founded.

Democrats Win County Offices

MIXED VOTING was plainly in evidence in Mansfield and Richland county yesterday as majorities in the county favored President Roosevelt by a small margin, rapped former Governor Davey's come-back aspirations by more than 2,500, and elected Democrats to all county offices with the exception of probate judge and representative to the legislature.

In both city and county the voting was heavy, marking a new high in display of interest in an election.

The return of Guy F. Stewart and Ray Hout to the office of county commissioner serves as an expression of appreciation of the conscientious service they have given heretofore, as does the re-election of Howard C. Sword as county engineer.

In several other instances preferences were shown for candidates who had experience in the particular office to which they aspired, and in no case was the majority sufficient to reflect discreditably on the defeated candidate.

It may now be hoped that the confidence expressed by voters in their choice of officials will be fully justified by evidence of earnest effort on the part of each of the officials elected to perform his duties of office in a capable and satisfactory way, so that voters may have no later reason to regret their choice.

Tax Levy Proposal Fails

THE proposed one-mill tax levy, intended to provide approximately $57,000 a year for municipal betterments, went by the board yesterday, although supported by a majority of Mansfield voters. It failed to attain the 65 per cent affirmative vote required for passage.

Viewing the needs of a prosperous and growing city, in such matters as police and fire protection, parks and playgrounds upkeep and airport development, it is regrettable that these essential services are handicapped by lack of funds. Public sentiment, however, has been so strongly against further increase of an already oppressive tax burden that even the most meritorious proposals have difficulty in securing a 65 per cent majority.

It will be necessary in Mansfield, therefore, to continue to adjust the program of municipal expenditures to come within the scope of available revenues and to forego the added safety, convenience and service which receipts from the one-mill levy would have provided.

Armament Sabotage Suspected

THERE have been too many fires in this country lately, especially in the war department at Washington. There have also been too many explosions. And there has been too much mischief of other kinds in connection with the nation's great rearmament program.

Such occurrences inevitably suggest sabotage, intended to hinder the great effort now under way to make America strong and impregnable. This program of course is purely defensive. It probably occurred to few Americans, until lately, that our government and people might have to defend themselves also against internal and subversive attack, on the part of misguided individuals or groups working under cover for alien purposes.

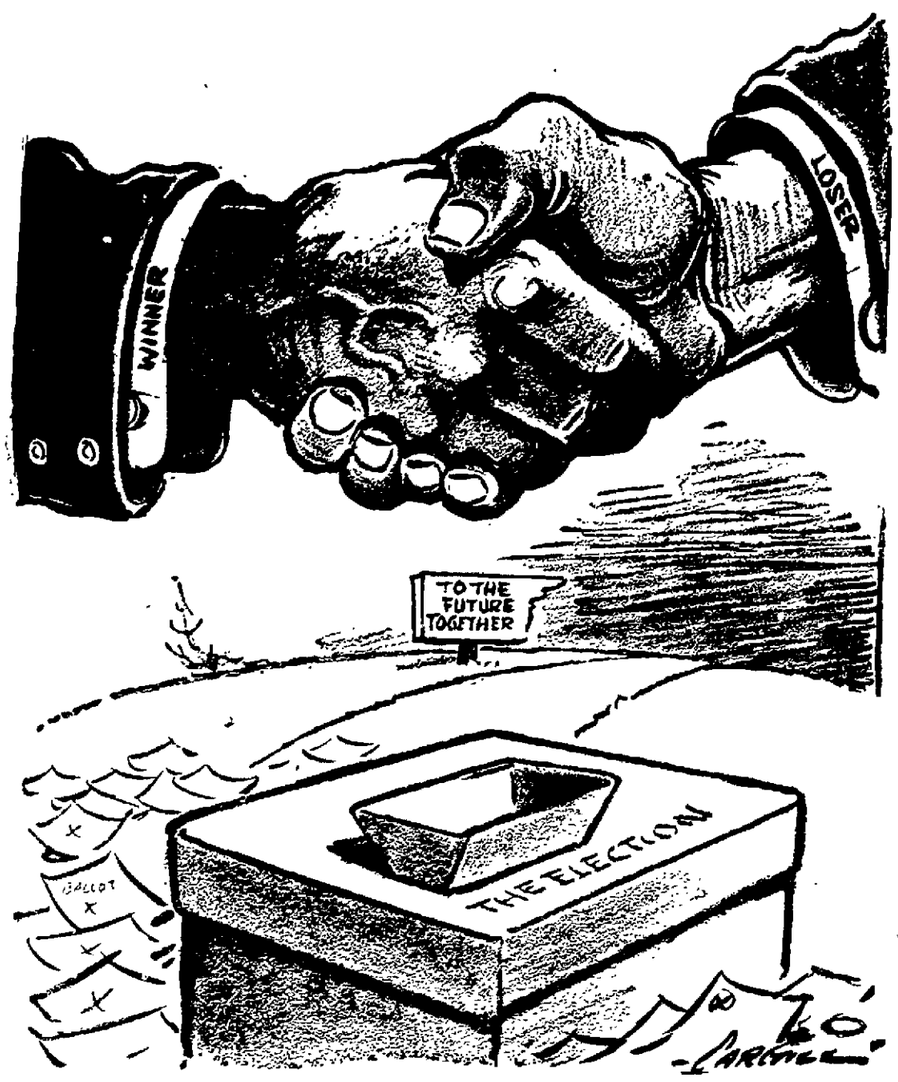
The Federal Bureau of Investigation and other protective agencies, state and local, naturally are awake to perils of this kind. No doubt secret enemies and meddlers will be dealt with appropriately in due time. In view of what has occurred in so many other countries, once free, maybe we should realize that we have had, comparatively, so little trouble along these lines. But obviously it is necessary to be on guard.

Iowa's Husky Husker

THEY raise sturdy cornhuskers along with their tall corn in Iowa. The new national champion in this practical sport is an Iowan who husked a net load of 46.71 bushels in the given time. He broke the record, made by another Iowan, which had stood for five years, and he broke it by no small margin. The record established in 1935 was 41.52 bushels.

Twenty-one other state champions competed in this annual autumn classic. Crowds turned out to watch. It was a pleasant social occasion as well as a sporting event and a demonstration of the survival of great personal skill in a machine age

NOW THAT THE ELECTION IS OVER



Amendment to Hatch Act Needed

—By CARTER FIELD

WASHINGTON—One of the things that should be done before the next campaign is to work out some amendment to the Hatch act. This should be done not to impair the working of the law so far as its original intentions are concerned, but to avoid the perfectly absurd waste of money that it has brought about.

The objections do not lie against the original Hatch act as passed in 1938, but only the amendments passed two years later, in the spring of 1940.

The original Hatch act was aimed at preventing the use of the huge army of people on the federal pay roll and on federal relief as a political machine for the party in power. The fact that this law was passed by both house and senate at a time when the Democrats were in overwhelming majority in both houses is the best answer to whether it was partisan. It very definitely was not.

The author of the act was and is a staunch party man, a Democrat elected by his state to the United States senate.

True, the law was opposed by some Democratic members of the some Democratic members of the house. But the fact remains that without a host of votes from the Democratic side in both house and senate it could not have become law.

* * *

THE original Hatch act, despite the fact that it had plenty of Democratic support, was distinctly favorable in its logical effects to the Republicans. It was the Democrats who had possession of the huge federal pay roll. Curtailment of its use by law obviously deprived them of an advantage. How great this would be would depend, of course, upon how the law was enforced, whether it could be gotten around, etc. But the net effect was bound to help the Republicans.

However, the changes in the Hatch act made two years later were very much in the interest of the party in power. In limiting the amount of money any national committee could spend in a calendar year, the law seems fair to both sides, but practically this is not true.

The answer here is that the party in power has a tremendous advantage, due to the growth of an army of press agents grinding out boosts for their own branches of the government, and to the fact that men and women whose salaries and expenses are paid by the government are constantly traveling over the country and talking about the advantages the present administration has brought. Also there are the government-made movies obviously intended to win public approval for the administration.

The party out of power has to spend millions of dollars in propaganda to come anywhere near offsetting this advantage.

The obvious illustration is the fact that the president of the United States is the best news source in the world. He can get the newspapers to print anything he chooses to say without spending a cent of the party's funds. His trips are news. His photographs doing anything he chooses to do are news.

* * *

SO THAT the 1940 amendment to the Hatch act virtually says to the people: We can tax you to pay for propaganda for the party in power, but we do not even permit you to give your own money to the national committee of either party beyond a certain amount.

The desired objective was NOT attained. Both the Democrats and the Republicans spent untold millions in excess of the limitations of the Hatch act amendements. Most of these expenditures were legal in that they were not made by the national committee themselves. The law does not touch OTHER agencies. But the point is that much of this money was wasted—would not have been spent so foolishly, perhaps, if the two national committees had not been cramped by the Hatch act.

Cut Those Roots!

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

JUST UP from the clearing where I've been laying out a new strawberry bed.

What a sunset! Wish you could have seen it boiling up, over the range, in a clear, coral flame, with the fields fading into violet dust beneath it, and the bared branches etched against it in black lace.

All day long a storm has been in the making. Now, in the twilight hush, you can feel the nearing rain—sharp with the smell of leaf mold, fallen pears and apples, pine needles, "Mountain Mis'ry" and wild mushrooms. Does something to you, the sight and smell and feel of things like that. Makes all the horror, hatred and hysteria of these days seem like a bad dream.

But getting back to those berries—happen to know anything about raising them? I'm no expert myself but I've fooled around with garden truck most of my life and thought I knew most of the tricks. But they sprung a new one lately that's a honey. At least it's new to me.

You've seen how strawberries are planted—"hilled up" in long high rows so the water can flow between them and the countless runners can have room to branch out from the old plants, rooting as they go. Then, come spring, you and the birds race for first serving!

Sounds simple enough but strawberry raising can be plenty complicated. The plants start easily enough but they lose their bearing enthusiasm mighty soon. Time was when the beds were moved every two or three years for nobody counted on getting more than a few crops from the same plant or plot. But, as I said, they've gotten around that now.

Come January, here in California, the farmers go between the rows with a gadget something like a cultivator, except it has blades which skim beneath the surface and cut the old roots. Not entirely off, they leave enough for new growth and grip. Would think it would ruin the plants, wouldn't you? Instead it gives them a new lease on life. Where, before, they stopped bearing after a couple of seasons, now they stay as lively as their own runners, come across with bigger and better crops year after year.

There is a strawberry plant grows old nonsense first. Uses up its vitality sending out roots and getting set. Pretty soon it's all roots and leaves and no berries. Now the new scheme puts it back into circulation by pruning those roots, breaking up that old, stubborn grip.

* * *

DARNED shame that can't be done to us humans when we begin getting "set" and unproductive. For we, too, take root. Not actual roots, of course, but their equivalent, which can wreck us just as surely. Bonds of prejudice and sentimentality, cowardice and conceit. Eccentric notions . . . pampered habits . . . foolish feuds.

Nothing much to them at first—we can break them anytime we want, we tell ourselves. But we don't break them. They multiply, grow stronger, tougher. Presently we're held as if by cables. Our productive days are over. We may still think we're live numbers, but we're not fooling anyone.

No, it isn't inevitable, "just a part of Growing Old." It can happen as easily at 25 as at 65. It happens whenever life becomes too secure and satisfied. And it can be as surely stopped.

Those root-pruned strawberry plants renew their fruitful youth because their security has been cut away; they're forced to make a struggle. And with that struggle comes new eagerness and energy. Take away our human comfort and safety and you'll see the same thing happen. Shock and loss, humiliation and poverty have saved many a mortal from senility.

IF YOU WANT TO STAY YOUNG, SNAP OUT OF THAT RUT . . . JUNK THOSE PREJUDICES . . . CUT THOSE ROOTS!

Inquiry Into Big City Corruption Is Planned By Justice Department

—By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON—Now that the election is over you will see the justice department focus attention on certain graft-ridden cities, chief among them being Detroit.

There, a group of high-up politicians are sure to be indicted for operating a liquor ring. They will be charged with diverting funds from state liquor stores. Basis of the indictments will be sending "hot" money through the U. S. mails, an offense which the justice department used for the first time with definite success in Louisiana. Since then the supreme court has upheld the justice department, so this new means of cleaning up local scandals will be used extensively.

Most Republicans will not believe it, but the justice department had the indictments all prepared before elections. But since some of the high Republican leaders of Michigan politics are going to be indicted, justice prosecutors decided to withhold action until after Nov. 5. They didn't want to be accused of playing politics.

Roosevelt's Weakness.

ROOSEVELT'S difficult time during the last weeks of his campaign goes back to his chief fault as an executive—reliance on those for whom he had a personal fondness regardless of their ability.

In this case his reliance rested upon the frail frame of Harry Hopkins, former secretary of commerce, and closer than any other man to Franklin Roosevelt. However, Hopkins, charming and likeable as he is, had two strikes against him to start. His physical condition is unable to withstand any great strain of work. Second, Harry's bungling of Chicago convention strategy was enough to raise the red flag of warning against further political responsibilities.

Inside fact was that Hopkins was deluged with suggestions from various presidential advisers, but was unable to assimilate them or delegate responsibility. He was acting as the funnel for presidential ideas, and was literally overwhelmed. He bogged down under it all, and did not get capable men to help him.

Roosevelt, however, carries personal loyalty to the nth degree. Any man who has been with him for a long time and whom he likes, stays with him. Roosevelt won't fire a friend.

Thus is was that the much-loved Claude Swanson remained as secretary of the navy until he died at the age of 78. He was so ill much of the time that he could not be an active secretary of the navy, but personal loyalty kept him on despite the national emergency.

And in the war department, Roosevelt could not bear to fire Harry Woodring as secretary of war, though everyone knew that the chief initiative for national defense came from Assistant Secretary Louis Johnson.

Real fact is that Roosevelt, far from having the dictator complex, is just too downright soft-hearted to be a good hirer and firer of men.

* * *

Argentine Gigolos.

THE GOOD NEIGHBOR policy has been promoted in many ways, from tariff lowering to flag raising, but never before has attention been given to the offending gigolos of Hollywood. Now, however, the combined good will of Nelson Rockefeller and John Hay ("Jock") Whitney is being exerted to reform the Hollywood practice of making every gigolo an Argentine.

Mr. Rockefeller, who is the government's co-ordinator of Latin American efforts, has dispatched Mr. Whitney to Hollywood to see what the film industry can contribute to the Good Neighbor program. He will make at least one specific suggestion, namely that Argentina does not like to be represented as a nation of gigolos.

The gigolo mischief was corrected earlier with respect to France. We had a big film market over there, and when French opinion objected to the Hollywood practice of making every gigolo a Frenchman, Hollywood bowed, and picked on Argentina.

* * *

TVA Victory.

THE Defense Commission isn't saying anything about it, but TVA, the New Deal's great southern power project, has just scored its second major victory in the defense program—after a hot inside battle.

First TVA triumph came last spring when the Defense Commission by unanimous vote, asked congress for $25,000,000 to expand TVA power facilities to supply the greatly enlarged needs of Aluminum Company of America and other big industries. Previously, for several years, every TVA request for authorization to expand had met bitter congressional opposition, but the Defense Commission's recommendation went through without a murmur.

The latest issue arose out of a war department plan to spend $6,200,000 to produce more ammonium nitrate, necessary for munitions, at the Muscle Shoals plant, which is under TVA jurisdiction. TVA insisted that the army's contract contain a clause providing that when the emergency ended, the enlarged nitrate plant, with a 300-ton a day capacity, should not be shut down and taken out of use, but should be allowed to continue for the manufacture of low-cost fertilizer.

In its seven years of operation under TVA, Muscle Shoals has produced 100,000 tons of fertilizer a year. This fertilizer contains around 48½ per cent plant food, as compared to 17 per cent in private quarters.

American Cyananimid, duPont and other large fertilizer makers protested vehemently. Joining them in the fray was the Mellon Institute, closely connected with the Aluminum company—which had been so pro-TVA a few months previous when the firm wanted additional cheap power.

Generalissimo of these forces was Gano Dunn, head of the J. G. White Engineering company, a close utility associate of Wendell Willkie and, like him, an old TVA foe. But TVA's spokesman was Chester Davis, one-time AAA boss and the farmer member of the Defense Commission. Vigorously backing Dunn was Edward A. O'Neal, head of the powerful Farm Bureau Federation.

The debate within the commission was amicable, but sharply drawn. On the showdown, TVA was upheld five to two. The two dissenters were William Knudsen (ex-General Motors) and Edward R. Stettinius (ex-U. S. Steel).

This adverse vote didn't sit well with several members of Stettinius' staff, of which Dunn is a member, and they grumbled about resigning. But Knudsen and Stettinius promptly put a quietus on that.

They moved that the commission's split vote be revised so as to record them voting with the majority. This was done, thus making the commission's action in favor of TVA unanimous.

Man About Manhattan

—By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—This is a good football town for money but a poor one for fun. If you are accustomed to the big horseshoe stadiums of the west and south you'll be unable to let yourself go in New York except possibly at Columbia University's Baker field, which is really a gridiron instead of a stadium.

Most big games in New York are played at the Polo Grounds or Yankee Stadium. They were designed for baseball and in them football is out of place. Only in midfield are the seats any good, and neither love nor money can provide midfield seats for the average fan. The answer is politics—not civil politics, but school and business politics.

* * *

I SUPPOSE I am prejudiced. At a formative time in my life I spent seven or eight years at Columbus, O., and any sports writer in the country will tell you Columbus is the capital of the football world. On Monday morning the coach may be hanged in effigy and by Friday evening the emotional build-up is so intense that women begin to faint and ex-halfbacks grow pale—all this with the next day's game in mind.

Usually the home and visiting coaches make speeches. The downtown sector is a vortex of humanity with thousands of students but ripples in a sea. Football takes over. Business comes to a standstill.

Next day the town is astir before dawn. The trek to the stadium begins in mid-morning and if you are fortunate enough to be on a tall building or in an airplane you will see the landscape dotted for miles around with specks of humanity, wending their way toward the great horseshoe.

Gradually the specks are welded into a whole, and you have a vast acreage of chrysanthemum-laden chests and fluttering streamers. You have blaring bugles and strutting drum-majors and the whole insane picture of college football at its best.

* * *

WELL, in New York you don't have this. You don't have anything, except a few announcements in the papers and a scramble for second-class seats at the dead end of a baseball park.

Yet, the people go. No one can remember when the Army-Notre Dame game hasn't sold out Yankee Stadium at $4.40 per, this in spite of the fact that one or both in recent years at least have come up to the big game with mediocre records. The Army this year has been licked 45-0. But 80,000 people were on hand when the kickoff came.

What New York needs is an old-fashioned Ivy league or midwest horseshoe concrete stadium. It needs flying streamers and a campus lined with giant oaks instead of skyscrapers. To me it seems to be missing the whole fundamental spirit of football now.

* * *

Charles Chaplin, actor, is a stubborn cuss. At the end of his film, "The Dictator," he makes a six minute speech. "It's too long," say the critics . . . "That's something I've been wanting to say a long time," says Charlie, "and IN it stays."

Grab Bag

One-Minute Test.

1. What's shadow boxing?
2. What do the letters P. B. X. mean in ads for operators, stenographers, etc.?
3. Do you know the names of the ships from which the tea was thrown overboard in the Boston Tea Party in 1775?

A Farmer's Diary

Sturdy Petunias

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

I LIKE PETUNIAS. They challenge my complacency. Since late last May, I have watched these hardy flowers wherever I chanced to see them. An oblong bed is along my neighbor's garden. Here I saw tiny plants emerge from the damp loam. Only by close scrutiny was I able to distinguish the seedlings from the weeds that were their rivals. Then stems grew long and thicker and more profuse, forming a mat of tender green.

By mid-August the first swells of buds upon the tops made a long rectangle of potential color, sloping gently toward the house. I caught a hint of that exquisite fragrance that flows tardily from the early, sleepy, fragile petals. Its delicateness made me crave a larger portion and by its very unexpectedness and subtlety whetted admiration for its giver. I stood beside that bed of embryonic bloom that summer morning, and felt a thrilling presence that spoke of holier things. I left with a memory that will never pass.

September brought a nodding radious patch of color, so dense in growth that hardy leaves and coarser stems were hardly visible. I heard the speedy wings of a humming bird and saw him dip his long stiff beak into the painted cups, while he hovered gracefully above them, as though to alight would debase the vessels from which he drew his sweets. At twilight, the hawk moth found his livelihood in those selfsame flowers moving like a shadow in the dusk.

Now, in November, still the flowers survive, braving inclement winds and killing frosts, after visits from birds and insects are long past. Even when the tough stems are borne down by a snowy covering, the ones above protect the ones beneath. One year, in late November, I saw saucy petunia blooms emerge from a three-inch snow and blossom, clean and new, defiant of the cold.

They are such common flowers to hold so stirringly to hope and courage.

There even seems to be a hint of impish humor about their daring struggle and their faith in themselves.

THEATERS

One of Popular Series.

A romance played against rustic swimming pools, a battle by physicians against an obscure and deadly malady, and hilarious comedy blend science with entertainment in "Dr. Kildare Goes Home," newest of the Kildare medical mysteries, with Lew Ayres, Lionel Barrymore and Laraine Day, playing at the Ohio. The picture adds a new doctor to the staff of Blair hospital in John Shelton, who is currently seen in "We Who Are Young."

* * *

Lana Turner In Drama.

Lana Turner plays her first dramatic role in "We Who Are Young," showing through Thursday at the Ritz. She is co-starred with John Shelton. The film gives a vivid story of the struggles of a young married couple for existence amid the rush and competition of New York City. Second attraction is the dramatic story of "Our Town," with Martha Scott, Beulah Bondi, Thomas Mitchell, William Holden, and a score of other stars in the cast.

* * *

A Natural For Barrymore.

In the film "The Great Profile," showing at the Madison, John Barrymore portrays a great actor who is given the lead in a play that is about to flop. Giving up, he ad libs his way through, and to everyone's surprise the play becomes a howling success. Co-feature attraction is "Cheokee Strip" with Richard Dix riding again in this adventure of the west. He has the role of a U. S. Marshall, maintaining order in a town on the border of the last great land rush.

* * *

Dr. Christian Series.

Continuing the popular series of "Dr. Christian" pictures is the film showing at the Park beginning Thursday. Jean Hersholt is in the title role in the picture "Dr. Christian Meets the Women" which is humorous yet forceful with its close-to-home drama as the Doctor exposes a crackpot "quack" who sells a pack of foolish women a fatal get-thin-quick scheme. Co-feature is "The Three Mesquiteers" in "Santa Fe Stampede," with John Wayne, Ray Corrigan and Max Terhune in the east.

TRUCK CAMPAIGN

BOSTON—(INS)—The blaring sound truck is a great vote getter—for the other fellow. Residents of nearby Dorchester recently had their sleep interrupted by candidates whose trucks drove through the streets loudly carjoling their votes. Hundreds telephoned their protests to the police. Police replied that nothing could be done because the trucks had permits. Residents, in turn, reminded police that they would take care of the candidates "in their own way"—on election day.

Democrats made almost a clean sweep of offices in the courthouse at yesterday's election, winning nine offices while Republicans took one. S. H. Cramer, Republican, won election as probate judge, defeating G. W. Marriott, Democrat, Richland county prosecutor, by 604 votes on the basis of complete but unofficial returns.

Biggest Staff In History On Job to Handle Record Vote

It required the biggest staff of election workers in the history of the county to tabulate Richland county's record vote last night, and the counting of the presidential ballots set a record for speed.

Nearly 600 tabulators went to work as soon as the polls closed at 6:30 p. m., and 20 minutes later the first precincts reported their presidential vote. It was virtually a tie between precinct A in Worthington township and E of the Third ward in Mansfield for the first-to-report honors. Both reported to the election board before 7 o'clock and both showed sizable margins for Wendell L. Willkie.

Like those in Ohio and some of the eastern states, the early returns for president gave the Republicans hope that soon turned to disappointment. Before 9 p. m., enough presidential votes had been counted to indicate President Roosevelt would win the county by more than 1,000 votes.

To speed the handling of the presidential count and avoid confusion at the courthouse, two groups of tabulators received the totals from the precincts by telephone in the probate court and county auditor's offices. The votes were tabulated there and taken immediately to the election board headquarters from where they were telephoned to the secretary of state.

* * *

The weatherman did his best to spoil The News-Journal's election party at the Fourth and Walnut streets intersection, but the big crowd stayed on the job until well after midnight, or until the presidential contest was definitely settled. The crowd obviously was pro-Roosevelt, for the biggest cheers always went up when the figures on the silver screen across Walnut street showed the president leading in Ohio and other important states. A cold rain chased most of the spectators to shelter about 11 p. m., but they came back again when the rain stopped.

* * *

The vote was so heavy that the voting place in precinct B of Madison township ran out of ballots three times during the day and had to have more rushed from the election board. The vote in the precinct, probably the largest in the county, was 852 in the presidential race. President Roosevelt polled 556 of them and held a commanding lead in all parts of the township outside Mansfield.

* * *

As usual, the basement of the courthouse was turned into a veritable madhouse during the night. Candidates made their headquarters in the county engineer's office across the hall from the election board, and the big room was so crowded that it was almost impossible to edge one's way through. The candidates tried to keep their own running totals, and their faces dropped or brightened as the figures showed them ahead or trailing. In some contests the lead changed four or five times during the night.

THE WORLD IS LIKE THAT + +

CHAPTER XXXI

"Yes," Philip said, "Janet's father left her an immense fortune. But Caverley wrecked a good part of it, and twenty-nine cut it down again. However, that wouldn't matter; Janet would be in debt anyway. She really doesn't know what money it. She'll promise to economize, give up a second car and a third driver, and on the way home from her broker's stop and buy herself a diamond watch for thirty-five hundred dollars. It's always come from somewhere, and she thinks it always will. She sends Von Sturnberg lots of money, to keep him quiet, and they tell me that she's been buying this Count Spazzolari silk monogrammed underwear. I don't know."

Jocelyn's face expressed her opinion, and he laughed

"Norma comes in her fortune next year?"

"No; just the accumulated income. "We've never spent half of it. But that accumulated income will run into hundreds of thousands—possible a million. And Janet knows that if Norma's with her when she gets it, the chances are she'll make over to her mother about two-thirds of it. So yesterday Janet was saying in her most maternal manner that she especially wanted Norma for February—I could have her until then, but please to remember that for her coming-of-age birthday she must be with Mama. And I presume the idea is to give her such a good time now that she'll want to be with Mama."

"She doesn't seem to be making a very good start."

"Well, that's where she'll fall down. Janet couldn't stick to any course very long. And now, sweetheart," Philip changed the conversation suddenly, "We've talked enough about Norma. She'll go off tomorrow, with Sandy and her mother, and if those two women have a modicum of sense they'll keep her happy for a while at least. So that's that. What about Dunham? Did you see him last night?"

"Oh yes. I met him at half past six and we had dinner, and we talked."

"And is he just as unreasonable as he was Sunday night?"

"Just as unreasonable. But I don't think, Phil," Jocelyn said with a smile, "that it really matters what he says, now. It makes me feel a terrible fool, but that isn't important, either."

"He's not divorced?"

"No; Lilian only wants Kent, she doesn't seem to care on what terms. She feels that she's bound to win in the end, and I suppose she will!" Jocelyn said. "All the time I was interested in Kent she knew it; we saw each other; she used to say complacently that while Kent admired me he couldn't get along without her. I was always the outsider. It was only that last night, at Covey's cabin, that he suddenly threw all that aside, suddenly that he and I could face the world and the critics together, and then I ran away—"

"But now what does he want, Jocelyn?"

"Now he's in despair. Lilian wants to take him back, on the ground that it was all a stupid mistake. She's the kind of woman who would easily persuade herself that that was true. He wants me to be his friend, to enter into all his plans, to advise with him what can be done. And how can I? I simply don't want to. It's all dead."

"We both have something—and in my case it's plenty!—to put behind us," Philip said. "Once you're married we'll hear no more of that. When the Malolo sails tomorrow we'll be one good step ahead. And then when will you come down to us?"

"I'll have a long talk with Aunt Nell before that and see what she thinks. But it oughtn't be too soon, Phil, because of Norma. If she needed you—if she was unhappy—it would be so terrible to have you off on a honeymoon with me. Wait until you get her first letters from Hawaii; those will tell a lot. Or wait until her mother returns her in August. Everything concerning Norma has always been managed so rapidly—in such a rush!"

"August!" He smiled at her. "Well," he conceded, "let's wait until they sail tomorrow and then we'll see. When will you come down to my mother?"

"Has she any idea of the way we feel for each other?"

"I don't think so. But it won't disturb her. She lives her life completely apart. You don't have to worry about my mother. What does worry me a little is the other women. They'll all give dinners and dances and things, and you'll hate 'em."

"We won't go to them."

"We'll have to go to some of them. They'll mean it kindly."

"I've an idea that people like the Searses and the Verrinders will be angry. They'll not be at all in a hurry to entertain me."

"All the better if they're not," Philip said. "We don't need them."

But a cloud had come into Jocelyn's eyes. "They wouldn't snub Norma?" she asked. "They wouldn't refuse to come to her parties?"

"Not while the Lockey company is solvent and earning dividends for Norma," Philip reminded her dryly. Jocelyn laughed.

"Well, we'll meet that when we come to it," she said. "This time tomorrow they'll be out at sea, and we can plan from there. You don't go down to see them off?"

"I don't want to see Janet. I'm bringing Norma into town early, and taking her to the boat, if Mother wants to come back with me I'll bring her, but I imagine she'll stay until the last whistle blows. Might you and I lunch?"

"I'll be here at half past one. But if you're not here I'll understand."

The next day he joined her with so changed a face that she knew before he could speak that everything had gone well.

"They're gone?"

"Gone. There was a great crowd of Janet's friends to see them off, and that put Norma into good spirits. I didn't get anywhere near to Janet, it was easy to avoid her in the crowd. They pulled out on time, and ought to be going through the Gate this minute."

"What a relief, Philip! It seems as if we could breathe now, and get to our plans."

"We'll have to decide when to tell my mother and your aunt. With Norma gone I feel as if my responsibilities were over, for the time being, anyway. If she's happy, well and good. If she's not she'll come back all the readier to settle down to sensible living. We'll have our three months anyway, go up to Banff maybe, and on for a look at New York. This is April. Why not plan for early June?"

"It sounds heavenly."

"Oh, and by the way, I've a message from my mother. She asked me never to tell Janet, but to ask Miss Britton if she would come back and act as her secretary for a week or two. She's let herself in for the Garden club excitement. I believe we're to have five or six hundred women trampling over the place, and a lunch, and Mother has a lot of bridge dates and can't be bothered with lists and telephones and committees, and she was casting about for someone to help her, and she suddenly thought of you."

"Do you really mean it?" Jocelyn said immensely pleased. "I thought she couldn't wait to get me out of the house."

"On no; she has no feeling in the matter at all. As a matter of fact she likes you; Annette told me so. But with Sandy and Janet riding her, she didn't want to fight. How about it? And by the way, they tell me you left a check behind you the other day."

"The Countess von Sturnberg's check. Yes. I was employed by you, after all. But how funny it sounds now! Employed by you. Yes; you owe me a month's salary. I'll spend it on a trousseau, and save you money in the long run."

"You will come down to Mother, then? When?"

"Anytime, Phil. Monday?"

"Monday. I'll be going down about four. I'll send over for you at three. Will that be too early? And let's set that other date. This is the ninth. Let's say—I've got a calendar here. How's nine weeks from today, June 11th?"

"My cousin Madeleine's being married a couple of weeks later. Yes; that would be all right. Nine weeks—oh, Phil!"

"I'll see you, you know. The Garden club thing isn't for a month; you'll be down at our house and we can plan. Just take it easy, darling, and don't get fussed."

"It's nice to be fussed by happiness," she said.

And when he looked in upon her, working away at his mother's desk a few days later, she repeated the statement. "Of course I'm excited. But no woman in the world ever was so happy!"

It was tremendously satisfying to get back to Hill Acres. Jocelyn revelled in every detail of her return. She and Philip saw each other daily now, if only for a few minutes. He was taking an unprecedented interest in the affairs of the Garden club, and to the great delight of the other members of the committee insisted upon assuming much of the responsibility for the forthcoming festivity. It was all like a happy dream to Jocelyn.

New hats shading her corn-silk hair, new linen frocks cool and smart for hot days, luncheons with Mrs. Fordyce at other women's beautiful homes—all these were part of it. Jocelyn was having a more and more complete introduction in the world into which she was so soon to enter, without anyone suspecting what was going on. She was a familiar figure now under the striped awnings, under the great oaks at the country club; the servants at Hill Acres respected and liked Miss Britton, and had accepted her as virtual housekeeper and manager; she had become Mrs. Fordyce's favorite companion.

The older women liked to talk to somebody, and Jocelyn was a good listener; there was no long-established family in the fashionable hillside suburbs that did not come in for a thorough dissection and betrayal.

"Her grandfather had a shady saloon down San Bruno way in the old days," Mrs. Fordyce would say carelessly of some fragrant bride, who was all but unable to count her glittering array of wedding gifts. "There's colored blood there," she said of a redheaded animated debutante. "The sooner they get that girl married off the better!"

PAY PERSONAL TAXES FRIDAY

Collection Period To Open Then On $100,000 Bill For Richland County.

Collection of personal taxes in Richland county for the last half of the year will begin Friday, County Treasurer John E. Kolb said today.

More than $100,000 in personal property levies is still due and it must be paid within one month after the collection starts or a penalty will be added.

Clerks in the treasurer's office were mailing out statements today to property owners who can pay their taxes by mail or by calling at the treasurer's office.

Personal tax collections for the first half of the year totaled more than $150,000. A number of property holders paid their taxes then for the entire year and they will not receive statements this time.

Personal tax is payable on household goods, farming equipment and live stock, office and factory equipment, stocks and securities, and other personal property.

BALANCE DOWN

County's General Fund Drops $7,600 During October.

Richland county's general fund balance dropped $7,600 during October, Auditor Norman L. Wolfe's monthly financial report showed today.

The operating balance Nov. 1 was $16,853 as compared to $24,510. General fund expenditures for the month were $8,000, while receipts amounted to only $344. Total expenditures for all county departments were $22,500.

The reports listed overdrafts amounting to $210,700. That figure included advances to schools, cities, and villages from the last-half real estate tax receipts. The regular distribution of tax funds will be made within the next two weeks, the auditor said.

NOVEL OF WAR TIMES REVIEWED AT CHURCH

Mrs. Benninghoff Presents Upton Sinclair's "World's End"; Will Return for Final Program In December.

A NOVEL of considerable historical import was presented yesterday afternoon in the auditorium of the First Congregational church when Mrs. W. E. Benninghoff, Cleveland, appeared for the second time this season under the auspices of the Women's association. She reviewed "World's End" by Upton Sinclair, the novelist and social reformer.

The book, like so many of today, deals with war, but not with the current one, but with the period preceding and during the last World war. It tells the story of Robby Budd, son of a steel manufacturer, who while in Europe meets and falls in love with a professional model, Beauty. She later becomes the mother of his son Lanny.

After returning to the states, Robby settles down to the steel business, in a money mad world. His son grows up in Europe. The boy, Lanny, is a character against a background showing the influences of the people he lives with, is related to, and comes in contact with. At the end of the war, he, then a young man, tells his father that he is going to the Riviera to watch the world end.

Mrs. Benninghoff, who was introduced by Mrs. Charles Fox, president of the association, will return Dec. 4 when she will review "Mrs. Miniver" by Jan Struthers at 2 p. m. in the church auditorium. Single admission tickets for the review may be purchased at the door.

Charles Dick Auxiliary Has Annual Inspection

After the routine business of the Charles Dick auxiliary at Memorial building last night, inspection was held. The group accepted an invitation to attend the annual Armistice day service Nov. 10 at 7:30 p. m. at the First Lutheran church. Members will meet at the Memorial building and go in a body.

Patriotic appointments were used when dinner was served at 6 p. m. by Mrs. Mary Johnson and Mrs. Alice Oster. The afternoon was spent in quilting.

Speaker Gives Review At Meeting of Guild

Mrs. A. M. Colby was the guest speaker at a meeting of the Senior World Wide guild of the Park Avenue Baptist church last evening at a meeting in the home of Mrs. Wayne Williams, 608 South Diamond street. There were 20 members present for the meeting, and the speaker reviewed Earle A. Ballou's book, "Dangerous Opportunity."

Refreshments were served at a late hour by the hostess and her associate, Mrs. Lawrence Whisler. Mrs. Donald Curl will have the next meeting, Dec. 3, at her home, 235 Glessner avenue.

Missionary Society Has Routine Session

Members of the East Mansfield church Missionary society were entertained yesterday by Mrs. Cora Christman, Wooster road, when Mrs. S. S Davidson led the devotions, and Mrs. Floyd Jordan and Mrs. Homer Spriggins presented the thankoffering program.

A guest, Mrs. Fred Diskoski, gave a reading. The 13 members planned a thankoffering program to be held at the church Nov. 24. The next meeting will be a covered-dish dinner at 6:30 p. m Dec 3, Christmas program and gift exchange.

HAVE PARTY.

An election night party was held by members of the St. Agnes guild of the Grace Episcopal church last night at the church. There were 13 members and five guests present. After the routine business, cards and games were played, and a buffet supper was served at a long table decorated with patriotic colors. The next meeting will be held Nov. 19 in the undercroft of the church with Miss Anna Horn as hostess.

She was followed by Mrs. Stanley A. Richardson who presented a paper on "Milkweed." Mrs. Richardson, Shepard road, will be hostess for the club Christmas party Dec. 3.

* * *

Mrs. Frank Bennett opened her home to members of the Fortnight club last night when Miss Ruth Culbertson, a guest, gave a paper entitled "Colonization of Latin America by the Spanish and Portuguese." Refreshments were served by the hostess, and a social hour followed.

The next meeting will be held Nov. 19 with Miss Mary Engwiller at the Women's Club.

Two Friends Honor Mrs. Simon At Party

Mrs. Alex Hamilton, sr., and Mrs. Christina Hamilton, 214½ North Mulberry street, gave a party Monday night honoring Mrs. Henry Simon, the former Miss Laurene Fetter. Games were played, and prizes won by Mrs. Bertha Fischer and Miss Genevieve Buzenski, who presented them to the honoree.

A shower of kitchen gifts was presented and the honoree was given a blanket by the hostesses. Luncheon was served at small tables at the close of the evening.

Leather Accessories

Leather accessories look well with spectator sports dresses in neutral colors. Here red leather beads are strung into a necklace and bracelet, and the cigaret lighter is covered in the same red leather. The dress, of beige wool, has severely simple lines.

Mrs. Frickman, Class President, Presents Program

Mrs. William Frickman was elected president of the Rain or Shine class of the South Main Street Evangelical church last evening during a meeting in the church parlors. Mrs. E. A. Rinehart, retiring president, was in charge of the business, and Mrs. LaFevre gave the devotional readings. Letters were read from two former members, Mrs. Anna Maguire of San Diego, Cal., and Mrs. T. T. Haas of Wooster.

Mrs. Frickman planned the entertainment, and readings about "Grandmothers" were given by Mrs. Briner and Mrs. Martha Boyd. At the close of the program, Mrs. E. L. Minard and her committee served refreshments. A Christmas party and gift exchange will be held in the church parlors on Dec. 3.

It was announced that 35 members and guests of the Art study group, under the direction of Miss Virginia Stark, recently made an all-day inventory of arts and crafts in Sandusky.

Miss Margaret DeWitt, international relations chairman, then reported on recent activities of the organization in this field, telling of the progress of the child refugee placement. She stated that over $10,000 has been raised by A. A. U. W. branches throughout the country for war relief. Nearly $5,000 has gone to the British Federation, and $2,000 was sent to the Finnish Association of University Women.

Mrs. Merritt Giles, president, announced the names of members to comprise the nominating committee to present candidates at the April meeting for the slate of officers to be elected for the next two years. Mrs. Charles Farry, Mrs. Harry Knox, Miss Olive Scott and Miss Culp were appointed, and Mrs. R. A. Rowland and Mrs. L. C. Nigh nominated from the floor.

Before the close of the business, Mrs. R. D. Campbell spoke on fellowships; Mrs. R. M. Shopping Around...

With MARIANNE

NOW that you know all the answers—about the election, I mean, you'll undoubtedly want to give some attention to doing a little advance Christmas shopping. . . . The downtown stores are filled with countless attractive suggestions, so it looks much as though it would really pay to buy early when there's a good selection and no rush. . . . One of the country's leading manufacturers of cosmetics has dressed up her two most popular colognes in special holiday packages. . . . These are "Pink Clover" and "Honeysuckle." Ensembles of each (composed of talc, soap and perfume) have been tied up in crystal clear cellophane and topped with a spray of pink clover or honeysuckle blossoms.

Marianne

This same cosmetician has just introduced some very pretty little purse pouches or evening bags of quilted satin in dusky shades of rose and blue.... Each one is fitted with a large "pink clover" compact and lipstick—the cases being enameled in pink and brightened with tiny golden clovers. . . . Then there are also extra pockets in these purses for comb and coins.

* * *

Have you seen those clever herb buckets they're showing now? Made of pliofilm and trimmed with edgings of colorful silk and braid, they're filled with flower petals, blossoms and spices to be sprinkled on the shelves in closets or bureau drawers. And the scents are so numerous that you'll be certain to find more than one that's pleasing as there are orange, violet, rose, lavender, spice and potpourri to choose from. . . . Another similar novelty is the sachet basket. . . . These are made of pliofilm on pastel-enameled metal frames tied with satin ribbon, and they contain satin sachet pillows or boules in lavender, blue, pink, white and yellow—all having floral aromas.

* * *

TO GO from the dainty to the very bright and colorful—there is a line of Mexican spice cologne and talcum, which comes bottled in earthen jugs and vases. . . . These are glazed in bright colors with fiesta designs and each one has a gay Mexican sombrero tied around the neck.

* * *

If you've a friend who seems to have everything, and you're at a loss to know what to buy for her, you might surprise her with one of those "Shocking" novelties—which really isn't so risque as it sounds. . . . "Shocking," you know, is the name of a very popular French cologne and perfume, and its feminine manufacturer now has introduced the essence in bath oils. . . . And the novel part about these oils is that they're contained in little tubes—so that only a drop need be used in each tub and they can be packed in a suitcase with no danger of breakage. . . . Oh yes, and there are bath sponges in this same fragrance. . . . These are little compressed cotton discs, which fluff into sweet-smelling washcloths when dropped in the bath water.

* * *

ALSO in the line of gift suggestions are those little perfume candles—especially timely for the yuletide season. . . . These are really little bottles of perfume, wrapped up in cellophane to resemble candles—even to a bright red flame on top—and fitted in little handle holders. . . . Such popular scents as lily-of-the-valley, gardenia, "Yankee Clover," "Debut" and "Three Flowers" can be purchased in these packages. . . . And the same manufacturer has fastened his popular "R. S. V. P." fragrance to a golden Christmas tree—inscribed with all kinds of holiday greetings.

Teen Age Child Fearful

By GARRY CLEVELAND MYERS Ph. D.

Boys and girls entering the teens are hampered with fears as they never were before or will be again in later years, perhaps. It is in the classroom around the seventh, eighth and ninth grades (junior high school) where this fear is most destructive, as a rule. Not a few of the same youths, of course, suffer from very severe self-consciousness when they attempt to speak before their classmates in the 10th, 11th and 12th grades, even in college.

Some teachers, too, are very uncomfortable, while in a teachers meeting or institute. I have discovered that when I conduct a forum with school teachers they, as a rule, are more timid about "talking up" than are junior or senior high school students. By the way, I visited in a class at a state teachers college recently and observed that practically every student in that class taught by the president of the college, participated in the discussion in an atmosphere which approached that of a comfortable fireside group. It was wonderful, about the best classroom atmosphere I have ever felt or observed Parents Suffer, Too.

This same fear which haunts youth also hampers fathers and mothers in a meeting where free discussion from the floor is invited.

Often teachers will argue with me that a student will have no fears about talking, if he is well prepared, that only the lazy students suffer from self-consciousness. The other day I asked a group of 700 junior high school girls if they often felt uncomfortable as they talked in class. Every hand went up as if a spring had been released. Certainly not nearly all of them were lazy students. I have had similar response from scores of other youth groups.

From among a junior high assembly the other day, there came forth within 30 minutes, the following statements from as many individuals, each of whom rose and spoke from where he or she sat:

Stage Fright.

"Your heart begins to beat very fast." "Your knees get weak." "Your knees shake." "You get out of breath." "Your voice quivers." "Your mouth and throat get dry." "You get a strange feeling in the bottom of your stomach." "Your face and neck burn." "You forget what you meant to say." "You wonder if some one will laugh if you make a mistake."

I believe the learning efficiency in the average classroom of teen age youth could be doubled if teachers cultivated an atmosphere of comfortableness—of good mental health—in the classroom, so the student could keep his mind on what he wished to say rather than on fears of being ridiculed.

Marriage Meddlers

By ADELE GARRISON

Continuation of "Married Comrades"

"I swear before God, I will live if he will let me," she said, finishing just as a knock came upon the door. Miss Whitlock answered it, and Dicky rushed in, brushing past me as if I did not exist.

"I was in time, Ede," he said. "I was able to put her in a safe place until she can be sent West to her own people. And I came back to tell you I'm sorry for what I said to you. If you hadn't told me, the girl would have been dead. They were close upon her trail."

"I'm glad," Edith Fairfax whispered.

"Dicky!" I faltered when we had reached the hall, but he pretended not to hear me.

"I must report to the Chief," he said, and I knew that my icy doubt of him had sent him leagues away from me.

Then Harry Underwood came loping down the stairs, took me by the shoulders, and turned me toward the library door.

"Get out of the hall," he said. "The Chief just has received word from his spy in Leslie's camp, sent out in code to one of Dad's other spies, that the gang has started and will attack before daylight. Dad has released Avis Arlen, giving her to understand that he is sure no attack will be made tonight, and has given her a bedroom to herself. We have instructions not to interfere with her roaming around at will, and as far as she can see she will be absolutely unobserved. But the Chief wants every other woman to stay put down here, and that means you and Lil. Will you ask Lil to come out just a second, please?"

"Of course, Harry," I said, and going into the library, summoned Lillian at once.

"Now both of you get back in there and stay," Mr. Underwood commanded, and rushed upstairs again.

Lillian and I looked at each other with mutiny in our eyes.

"He didn't make me swear or promise," she said childishly at last, and my throat was suddenly dry as I mournfully reflected that I would receive no command from my husband.

"We didn't promise Father either," I said and seizing my army, she turned back to the library.

"We'll pretend to be asleep for a little while," she said, but when we were sure all our charges were asleep, we told Katherine of our plan, and her voice and face were suddenly bitter.

"I ought to report you," she said, "but who am I to interfere? I have no man with whom to share either danger or safety."

I caught her hand and squeezed it in silent, loving sympathy, while tense anger against her husband, Jack Bickett, my dead mother's only kinsman, for his cruel treatment of her flamed in my heart With no word from him for so long, she was worse than widowed.

Lillian and I changed quickly to warm, dark, unhampering clothing. Then we lay down and waited for some noise which would tell us that the attack had begun.

We knew that my father's strategy would be, for he had outlined it to us earlier in the day.

Men were to be hidden in the attic with instructions not to come out until the last one of Leslie's gang should have come through and passed down the stairs.

The men on the second floor were to keep hidden until the gangsters were clear of the stairs and began to spread out toward my father's door, and the bedroom where Noel and Mary were supposed to be sleeping. At a given signal from my father, Leslie's men, if they did not surrender to the overwhelming odds against them, were to be engaged and captured. Each defender was to take a man in combat with two or three keeping themselves clear for the capture of Leslie, and the men in the attic effectually cutting off the retreat of any of the gangsters to the secret passage.

But Lillian and I found that we could not wait for the beginning of the attack. When all the rest save Katherine were asleep, we slipped out the kitchen, up the stairs to Katie's quarters, and then to the door leading from the back hall to the corridor, from which we had a good view of the attic stairs.

The corridor appeared deserted But we knew that behind every darkened door, and around the turns in the winding hall, alert and heavily armed men were waiting for my father's signal.

From somewhere behind us there came the sound of stealthy footsteps, light, barely audible, yet unmistakable to our ears sharpened to unusual alertness.

Our hands slipped to our silencer pistols, but a thread-like whisper loosened our fingers.

"Auntie Madge!" it breathe.

With infinite caution Lillian closed the hall door which she had set ajar. Not until the noiseless closing was accomplished did I dare to speak. By that time Mary's slender figure, almost indistinguishable in the darkness, was close to me, and her outstretched hands caught my shoulders convulsively.

"Mary!" I whispered. "What madness is this?"

"The same that has you and Aunt Lillian in its grip," she whispered back. "Noel's out there, remember, and Leslie will hunt for him first. I just had to come. I watched my chance when Aunt Katherine went back to see if Faith was all right, and slipped out. But I won't be any trouble. I'll be just as quiet."

"You'll have to be," Lillian murmured. "After we set this door ajar again, I don't want even a deep breath out of you. And, don't screech—Avis Arlen is roaming around out there. Tell her about Avis, Madge."

With my lips close to Mary's ear, I told of my father's letting her roam around at will, after her spectacular arrival

"It's a part of his scheme to trap Leslie" Lillian commented, 'but I never knew the Chief to be so ruthless before, for the girl is in great peril. I'll bet anything she thinks she's going to let Leslie in by himself. What will she do when she sees the gang behind him?"

The question was answered just before three o'clock, the hour Jack Leslie had named to Avis. Through the aperture in the door, we saw the girl come stealthily from her room, look around her watchfully, and then steal up the attic stairs.

We could hear no sound near us, but we could feel the sudden tensing for trouble which we knew every hidden watcher was experiencing.

And then, through the silent house came a scream from Avis, quickly stifled as if a choking hand had been laid over her mouth. Then there was the sound of a blow, a swift, brutal thing, one designed to knock a person unconscious.

'Co-Ed' Unveiled As Masquerading 'Frosh' Student

SAN ANTONIO, Tex.—(INS)—A member of the St. Mary's University faculty thought he had unearthed a major scandal when he observed a lone "co-ed" on the Woodlawn campus of the San Antonio school—which is co-educational only in its night and law school classes.

The prof reported to the Dean of Men that male students were becoming "rather familiar" with the unidentified young woman.

But investigation revealed the "co-ed" was Jack Jackson, freshman from Laredo, who had been ordered by the freshman court to appear in feminine apparel for a violation of freshman rules.

WORKING WITH DOUGHS

Working with yeast dough is easy and fun A few practice sessions with a good recipe give a cook the knack of mixing and kneading the dough, for reliable recipes and dependable flours have taken the guesswork out of home baking. Essential yeast dough ingredients are flour, liquid and yeast.

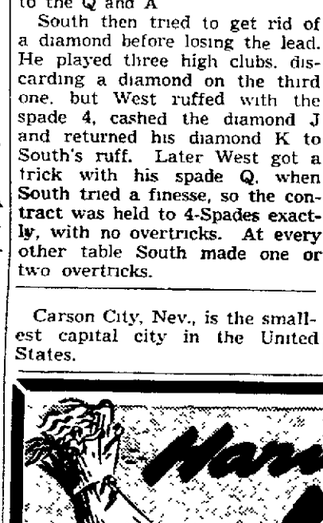
BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

By Shepard Barclay

"The Authority on Authorities"

SHOOTING FOR TOPS

Straining to gain a top score on a hand in duplicate play does not necessarily mean trying something which places the odds tremendously against your success That more often results in a bottom score than a top A better attitude is to seek some move, of course different from what you think most players will use at other tables, but which is equally or nearly as sound as the one they probably will employ.



(Dealer. North. Neither side vulnerable.)

North	East	South	West
1 ♣	Pass	1 ♠	Pass
2 ♣	Pass	3 ♠	Pass
3 NT	Pass	4 ♠	Pass

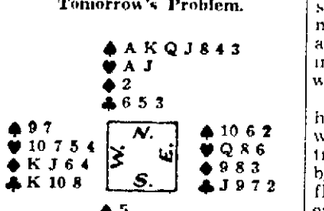
Approximately the same bidding occurred on this deal at all tables of a tournament in St. Louis, but different leads were made by West. Where the heart Q was chosen, it ran to the K. Then the heart 10 was finessed and the A furnished a diamond discard. The spade J was finessed to the Q and the diamond 5 returned to the Q and A. The A and 10 dropped the missing trumps and three high club furnished a second diamond discard, so that South made two overtricks.

One West player decided that at nearly every table the lead would be likely to be a heart. He reckoned that South probably did not have both the A and Q of diamonds. If his own partner had either, that lead could not directly cost a trick, and would be different from the other players' leads. So he led the diamond 5 to the Q and A

South then tried to get rid of a diamond before losing the lead. He played three high clubs, discarding a diamond on the third one, but West ruffed with the spade 4, cashed the diamond J and returned his diamond K to South's ruff. Later West got a trick with his spade Q, when South tried a finesse, so the contract was held to 4-Spades exactly, with no overtricks. At every other table South made one or two overtricks.

Carson City, Nev., is the smallest capital city in the United States.

Tomorrow's Problem.



(Dealer: North. Neither side vulnerable.)

After West leads the heart 4, how should South play this deal for 6-No Trumps?

Kneading the yeast dough thoroughly mixes the ingredients and helps to develop the gluten in the flour into a fine mesh-work Kneading is a rhythmic rocking motion with the "heels" of the hands—folding the dough over itself, pushing it lightly, and folding it over again. Sticky at the start, the dough becomes smooth and elastic after 8 to 10 minutes of kneading, and then is ready for rising.

HOROSCOPE

For Thursday, November 7.

WHILE matters may be accelerated to a very high degree on this day, according to the lunar and mutual aspects, yet the general trend of events may be devastating and disintegrating rather than constructive. The energies and spirit of initiative and enterprise may well be stimulated, but the mental slant or grasp of disruptive situations may be erratic, panicky or revolutionary.

Those whose birthday it is may run into a year in which it will demand a definite use of the constructive forces, with sound planning and aggressive execution to avert dire results of impetuous, irresponsible, erratic or eccentric whims or impulses.

A child born on this day may have excellent creative ability, with much enterprise and initiative, but this may be negatived by an erratic, rash, impetuous or flighty temperament, unless given early training and direction.

Potential All-America Guards Are Plentiful

Many College Combines Have Two Topnotch Linemen on Squads.

By HERB BARKER

NEW YORK—(AP)—Maybe it's just a case of double vision, but every time a fellow spots one potential All-America football guard this year, another one springs to sight at the same spot.

Not often if ever, in the past have there been such guard combinations as Bob Suffridge and Ed Molinski of Tennessee; Warren Alfson and Ed Schwartzkopf of Nebraska; Lou Conti and Howard Dunbar of Cornell; Ernest Mills and Nicky Ardillo of Auburn. You might add Duke's pair of Alex Wnterson and Mike Karmazin, for the Durham outfit has been moving along ever since these two were installed as regular guards.

* * *

Molinski, a Massillon high product, an All-America last year, played well last week against Louisiana State, but most observers agreed that Suffridge, back in his 1938 sophomore form, was the outstanding lineman on the field.

* * *

Marshall Foch Robnett, Texas A. and M.'s leading guard candidate, was trapped twice in the early stages of the Arkansas game, but more than made up for those lapses with a bang-up performance the rest of the way.

After Eddie Anderson, Iowa coach, watched Tom Melton of Purdue in action, he said the Boilermaker was the "best guard I've seen."

Among the ends, Dave Rankin, veteran Purdue wingman, was a standout, as was big Bill Johnson of Minnesota, against Northwestern. Jim Schmuck of Cornell looked like the best man on the field in the rout of Columbia.

Another star wingman, Bob Ison of Georgia Tech, has been shifted into the backfield, along with Guard Hawk Cavette, as a result of the Engineers' rout by Duke.

Among other leading linemen who attracted attention last week were:

Centers, Gladchuk, Boston college; Gude, Vanderbilt; Nelson, Baylor, Hiemenz, Northwestern, Snavely Columbia; Gillis, Army, Ayres, Harvard; Simms, Navy; Apolskis, Marquette; Maughan, Utah State; Lindskog, Stanford.

Tackles: Enich, Iowa, Reinhard, California; Hartman, Rice; Pannell, Texas A. and M; Bauman, Northwestern, Drahos, Cornell; Levanitus, Boston college; Kuzman, Fordham; Spendlove, Utah; Bateman, Brigham Young, Shires, Tennessee; Eason, Oklahoma; Wiener, Kansas State, Banducci, Stanford.

Purdue Picked To Win Over Fordham Rams

Scribe Says Boilermakers Play Better Ball.

By LAWTON CARVER

NEW YORK —(INS)— Without any intention of being perverse about the thing, we herewith pick Purdue to defeat Fordham next Saturday in the sixth revival of this battle, which annually brings the Big Ten into the east.

We are picking this one strictly against local sentiment and despite the fact that Purdue isn't as hot this year as it has been in the past. Moreover, this one is our only single game pick of the season. Usually, we pass out a hatful of probable winners and let them all go wrong at once.

But we figure this game will help to prove a long-time contention of ours, viz and to wit:

That the best football in this country is played in the Big Ten and that a pretty good Big Ten team, therefore, will be able to do a little better than all right against a comparative leader elsewhere.

Purdue has a team which is known in football circles as a "comer," which is to say one that will get better as it goes along, and we figure that this game will go a long way toward showing just how much better the Big Ten is year in and year out than other sections.

The so-called boiler-makers lost 26 of their 39 letter men by graduation since last season and have had a dismal outlook ever since the season opened. But they have been getting better from week to week and seem to have arrived finally. Fordham will be a good test.

Dick Bartell, Detroit, 26; Joe Kuhel, Chicago, 18; Sid Hudson, Washington, and Ted Williams, Boston, 16, each; and Barney McCosky, Detroit, 11.

* * *

Ernie Bonham New York, eight; Walt Judnich St. Louis, six; Johnny Babich, Philadelphia, five; Mike Tresh of Chicago, Frank Hayes of Philadelphia and Ray Mack, Cleveland, four each; Joe Gordon of New York, Cecil Travis of Washington, Bob Kennedy of Chicago and Charley Gehringer, Detroit, three each; Rollie Hemsley, Cleveland and Ted Lyons, Chicago, two each; and Lou Finney, Boston and Eldon Auker St. Louis, one each.

Greenberg Voted 'Most Valuable'

By TOM SILER

CHICAGO—(AP)—It was a happy day for all concerned when the Detroit master minds finally decided to shift Hank Greenberg, with his consent, from first base to the outfield.

* * *

Big Henry said that the move suited him if it would help the team, and it did help the Tigers emerge as a surprise American League flag winner without hurting the Tiger slugger at all.

* * *

Greenberg's splendid year at the plate and acceptable work in the outfield moved the Baseball Writers association of America to vote him the "most valuable player" of the year, the same honor he received in 1935.

Hank blasted 41 home runs and knocked in 150 runs, leading the league in both respects.

A committee of 21 writers, representing the association, gave Greenberg 292 points, which included 16 first place votes. Each vote for first counted 14 points, a second place vote counted nine, third place eight and so on down to one point for 10th place.

Bob Feller's 27 mound victories for Cleveland brought him second place with 222 points and six first place votes. Only two pitchers—Walter Johnson and Lefty Grove—ever won the award. Joe DiMaggio of New York, the 1939 winner, dropped to third with 151 points. Buck Newsom, Detroit pitcher, and Lou Boudreau Cleveland shortstop, ranked next in order with 120 and 119 points, each getting one first place ballot. Jimmy Foxx, Boston only three-time winner of the "most valuable" designation, ranked sixth with 110 points.

Other point's were divided as follows:

* * *

Schoolboy Rowe, Detroit, 62; Rudy York, Detroit, who succeeded Greenberg at first base, 61; Ray Radcliff, St. Louis, 55; Luke Appling, Chicago, 51; Roy Weatherly, Cleveland, 31;

Best This Year

Detroit's slugging outfielder, Hank Greenberg, is the American league's most valuable player this year. Greenberg was selected over Bob Feller and Joe Di Maggio, second and third, by a poll conducted by the Baseball Writers' Association of America for the award. It was the second time Greenberg won the honor.

Bulldogs at Full Strength For Homecoming Game Friday

BULLETIN

Coach Bob Burgett of Butler high announced at noon today that the Butler-Bellville homecoming game at Butler will be staged at 2:30 p. m. Saturday instead of Friday as originally scheduled.

* * *

FOR the first time this season Coach Bob Burgett will see his complete varsity football machine in action against an opponent.

* * *

The lineup riddled all season by injuries, the Bulldogs are expected to be in top form for their homecoming game against the Bellville high Bluejays at Butler at 2:30 p. m. Friday afternoon.

* * *

Mentor Burgett had a veteran team when practice sessions opened this fall, but injuries benched several of the important players and Burgett has been using a patch-up lineup in every game.

Among the mainstays out were Dave Grubb, 200-pound six-foot end, Walter Sawdy, tackle, and "Red" Dalbey, scrappy guard three weeks ago and has not taken part in practice since.

Sawdy suffered a broken collar bone in an early game and Burgett believes the lad will be ready to go Friday. Dalbey was Grubb suffered an ankle sprain knocked unconscious and lost several teeth. He is fighting to get back into the forward wall this week.

Bellville, fresh from a 7 to 0 victory over the Madison Rams, will enter the game as slight favorites, but if the Bulldogs can click they may turn back the Bluejays.

* * *

Butler will hold a weight advantage, but the fast-breaking Bluejays are expected to offset that with speed and a classy passing attack. Bellville scored its lone touchdown against Madison on an aerial.

Rams Play Before Homecoming Crowd

By BOB FLOHR.

ALTHOUGH still [illegible] first win of the 1940 [illegible] season, a crowd of several hundred is expected to see the Mansfield high school Rams perform in the annual homecoming game with Loudonville high tonight at the Madison field [illegible].

* * *

Friday night the Rams bring down the curtain on one of their poorest seasons in a number of years, in which they have dropped eight straight contests.

* * *

A feature of the homecoming celebration will be the crowning of Miss Norma Jane Howell as homecoming queen. Miss Howell was chosen in popular vote of the student body last week. Her attendants will be Helen Norris and Dorothy Butler.

Hoping to vindicate themselves in the eyes of Mansfield fans the Rams will put everything they have into the contest in an effort to salvage one victory for the season.

Still trying to find a combination, Coach Al Feller this week is putting his proteges

* * *

Madison suffered its latest defeat last Saturday at the hands of Bellville, 7 to 0. The Rams have downed the Bluejays for the past two years.

No Operation for Evvy Now

It was thought Forest Evashevski, University of Michigan football captain, had to undergo an operation for an injury sustained in the Penn game, but Evvy won't have to go under the knife until after the football season ends. Evvy, therefore, smilingly emerges from the University hospital at Ann Arbor, Mich., with his girl friend, Ruth Brown, daughter of U. S. Senator Prentiss M. Brown.

Gets Post

Edward P. (Slip) Madigan, former coach of the St. Mary's college football team, has a new job these days — general manager of the $2,000,000 Golden Gate Turf club nearing completion at Albany, Cal. Madigan signed a three-year contract at $15,000 a year.

Tygers Out To Stop Back

Coach Snyder Working on Defense to Halt Garrison, Canton Ball Packer.

COACH PAUL SNYDER today is working on a defense he hopes will help throttle the state scholastic individual scoring leader when the Mansfield high Tygers meet Canton McKinley at Canton Saturday afternoon.

The lad is Athie Garrison, colored backfield ace, and he has personally accounted for 127 points as the Bulldogs chalked up seven wins and a tie this season.

Garrison, a breakaway runner of great speed and a fair southpaw passer, has collected 20 touchdown and seven extra points to amass his total.

* * *

If Mentor Snyder's athletes can halt the Canton threat they have an even chance of emerging with the decision.

* * *

Mansfield suffered a let down against Ashland last week, losing a hard-fought, 7 to 6 verdict and the Tygers may rebound hard against McKinley.

The Bulldogs average around 168 pounds and will hold at least an eight-pound advantage over the Mansfield combine. The Tygers will miss the services of two regular backs this week.

* * *

Jim Templeton and Adam Brandt, half and fullback, respectively, were injured in the Ashland game and will be on the sidelines against McKinley.

* * *

Templeton suffered a hip injury while Brandt sprained his ankle. Neither has reported for practice this week and Snyder will probably keep them out of the lineup until the Shelby game, which winds up the season.

BATTLE TO DRAW

SAN FRANCISCO — Sammy Angott 140, Louisville, N. B. A. lightweight champion, and George Latka, 136, San Jose, Calif., drew (10).

BOWLING SCORES

Frank scored his high total on games of 244, 200 and 156. Trailing him was Kenneth Turner of the Maintenance team in the Mansfield Tire and Rubber company league. Turner collected a 615.

Punts and Passes

(By Associated Press)

LAFAYETTE, Ind. — Twenty-five seconds represents the difference between a perfect record in Big Ten games and Purdue's two defeats in three Conference games. The Boilermakers were beaten in the last 19 seconds to Ohio State when Charley Maag kicked a field goal, and by Wisconsin in the last six seconds after outplaying the Badgers. In their other Big Ten game they routed Iowa.

* * *

DURHAM, N. C. — Wes McAfee no longer has his perfect record of never having a pass intercepted, but Duke football fans say he ought to be credited with a record anyway. When Steve Lach jumped for a pass in the Georgia Tech game last Saturday and deflected it into the hands of Johnny Bosch, Tech halfback, it was the first interception of a McAfee pass in three years. Wes had thrown 78 and completed 39.

* * *

NEW YORK — It isn't that Lou Little, Columbia coach doesn't think highly of the Cornell team that beat his Lions, 27-0, but he wants his team to be prepared for Wisconsin this week. "You're in for a tougher afternoon this week, in all probability, than you had at Ithaca last Saturday," Little warned.

* * *

MILWAUKEE — Only three members of the Marquette squad, which plays Manhattan at New York Saturday, have seen the big town, and none has been there since he was in knee pants. Nevertheless, Coach Paddy Driscoll says: "This is no rubberneck trip. Our boys will see plenty of sights when Manhattan goes into action."

Gophers Seek Sixth Win In Michigan Tilt

MINNEAPOLIS — (AP) — Minnesota's big game hunters, with five highly prized trophies of the chase already in their record of gridiron achievements, hope to collect another—Michigan's Wolverines—here next Saturday.

* * *

It will be no small task to achieve the end, Coach Bernie Bierman admitted today.

The Gopher coach believes his team has not yet reached its peak of performance, and will be striving to get some added improvement before the Wolverine invasion.

Minnesota won't be out to "shoot the works" just against Michigan. Bierman said—it has had to do just that against every opponent so far on its schedule. This may be a factor in its favor against Michigan which so far has had an easier schedule.

Minnesota spotted Northwestern to a touchdown early last week and then powered its way back for two scores to win.

As regards Tom Harmon, Michigan's great back, quite a few of Minnesota's players remember him a year ago, when the Gophers came out on top, 20 to 6. In that game Harmon carried the ball 12 times and picked up a net of only 30 yards.

Michigan has not won from Minnesota since 1932 although it managed a tie in 1933, and since has lost six in a row to the Gophers.

Minnesota in winning its first five games of the season rolled up 1,238 yards by rushing for an average of 4.62 yards or an average of 3.96 yards a try.

* * *

In passing, however, Minnesota yields the advantage to their opponents, which completed 30 of 84 passes for 411 yards. Minnesota on the other hand has made but nine of 36 passes for 187 yards.

Girl Has Developed Into a Double-Threat Backfield Ace

By WALTER DUSTMANN

ATMORE, Ala. — (U.P.) — Luverne Wise, 18-year-old blond who is the nation's only football playing high school girl, has developed into a double-threat backfield ace.

* * *

* * *

Coach Andy Edington, who last year got the idea of making Luverne a "featured player" on his Atmore high school football team, has made it pay out in attendance, publicity and point conversions. He said today opposing players still don't know exactly what to do when they oppose Luverne. It poses a nice problem in chivalry.

Edington, who drills Luverne for 15 minutes in place-kicking and passing daily, said that his protege gets better all the time and has amazing poise in front of a group of hard-charging boys.

"It was only by accident that Luverne began passing," he said. "The center threw the ball wild one day. She skipped back, picked up the ball and, as the entire opposing team enthusiastically raced through, she threw a beautiful long lateral to the captain. He made another pass to the end, and we had another point."

It makes little difference to the crowds whether Luverne kicks or passes. Her every appearance, in abbreviated silver skirt and blue and silver blouse, draws rousing cheers. She only stays in the game for the try for point and draws cheers even if she misses.

In the first game this season, Luverne place-kicked two extra points in two attempts. In the second game, she missed the first place-kick but on the next conversion, threw a pass and made the point.

Since then she has been mixing the kicks and passes for an effective change of pace.

Luverne makes good grades in school and works as an assistant cashier in an Atmore theater.

Clemson Clicks Without Yankees

CLEMSON, S. C. — (AP) — Clemson is one Dixie football team that is struggling along without "Yankee" assistance.

* * *

The Country Gentlemen are coached by Frank Howard, of Barlow Bend, Alabama, whose assistants are all South Carolinians and Clemson graduates.

* * *

The Tiger roster of 42 players lists 32 from South Carolina, four from North Carolina, two from Georgia and Tennessee, one from Alabama, and one from Virginia. And they are true "Country Gentlemen." Tackle Bill Hall and end Joe Blalock are the closest approaches to "city slickers." They live at Charleston, S. C.

RECORD ENDS

HARTFORD — (INS) — It wasn't the one dollar fine, but the principle of the thing. That is the way John F. Curns, of North Wilbraham, Mass., felt when he discovered a parking ticket on his car. In sending in the fine by mail, Curns notified the Hartford police department he had driven over a half million miles and this was the first time he had ever received a parking ticket.

Greeks Claim Confused Italians Shell Own Troops

REPORT TANKS OPEN FIRE ON DEFEATED FOE

Duce's High Command Asserts Enemy Attack Beaten Off In Northern Area.

(By Associated Press)

Retreating Italian troops were shelled by their own tanks, the Greek high command said today, as Greek mountain fighters seized hill fortifications guarding the city of Koritza, in Albania, where 30,000 Fascist soldiers are reported trapped.

Dispatches from the front in the 10-day-old Balkan conflict said the besieging Greek armies were tightening their grip on Koritza, cutting off the Italian supply route for an invasion of western Macedonia and shelling the city continuously.

A Greek communique said many Italian prisoners were taken in the battle on the Koritza Heights, along with artillery, howitzers and machineguns.

Premier Mussolini's high command reported that Fascist invasion forces had driven off Greek attacks between Lake Presba and Kapestica Pass, in the north, after violent fighting.

Authoritative quarters in London said the Italians had not yet launched their main offensive against Greece, but that the real attack was to be expected at any moment—probably on the Kalamas river front, above Ioannina (Janina), in northwest Greece.

British RAF warplanes bombed the Naples area in southern Italy during the night, the Fascist high command disclosed, killing 14 persons and woundng 10. It was the third raid on Naples in less than a week.

Other RAF bombers struck punishing blows at the big German naval base at Emden, the London air ministry reported, starting 30 spectacular fires among petroleum tanks there and heavily bombing shipyards at Bremerhaven and Bremen.

RAF night raiders also pounded the German-held forts across the English channel at Boulogne, Calais, Dunkerque, Antwerp and Flushing.

London itself underwent the longest night air-raid alarm of the war, with "Lone Wolf" Nazi fliers droning overhead from dusk yesterday until the all-clear signal finally sounded at 8:30 a. m.—a foretaste of what may be in store for the bomb-scarred capital in the long winter nights ahead. Next week's English nights will lengthen to approximately 14 hours.

In the wake of Prime Minister Winston Churchill's grave comment yesterday on British shipping losses, indications arose of a possible extenson of the German blockade of England.

The fate of a British convoy attacked by a German raider in mid-Atlantic was undetermined, with no further word from the 16,698-ton passenger liner Rangitiki and the freighter Cornish City after their radio distress call yesterday that they were "being gunned" by an enemy ship of the "Admiral Graf Spee class."

Shipping men said both of Germany's remaining pocket battleships, the Luetzow and Admiral Scheer, have been rumored operating in Atlantic waters.

Coincidentally, the German high command asserted that 7,160,200 tons of "enemy shipping" have been sunk by Nazi warcraft since the outbreak of the war 14 months ago.

HURT AS AUTOS SKID, COLLIDE

Miss Maxine Zimmerman, 188 South Foster street, was treated at General hospital for shock and slight concussions about the head and was later removed to her home after an automobile accident on Glessner avenue last night.

Police said Miss Zimmerman was a passenger in a car driven by Richard Payne, 187 Cline avenue, which collided with one driven by Merl Garver, 167 Vennum after skidding on the wet pavement. Several persons riding with Garver were uninjured but both cars were damaged.

Police received reports on five other auto collisions last night during the rain, in which cars were damaged, but no one injured.

Three weary candidates for county offices stayed on the job in the courthouse until dawn today to see the final vote, and it was worth it for all of them. John Catlett, winner of the county representative post, and Don Orewiler, the new county recorder, were the last to leave the election board office. Ray Hout, re-elected county commissioner, left a little earlier. Catlett, who has lost 18 pounds during the campaign, wasn't sure he won until after 7 a. m. today.

Too bad that Mansfield doesn't have a coat of arms or fancy official seal. Mayor W. J. Locke has received a letter from the lieutenant commander of His Majesty's Ship Mansfield, which was one of the 50 ships which the United States gave to England, asking for some souvenir of the city for the ship. All 50 ships were named for cities of the United States that were named for English cities. He asks for a "coat of arms or a plaque." The mayor has asked the Public library to make a search for some such emblem which would represent the city.

According to reports, Dr. Clarence Hien brought along a giant model of a tooth, while Herman Balyeat, a mattress manufacturer, lugged in a bale of cotton. Rev. D. N. Roller carried in a miniature pulpit and E. P. Yocum of the Ohio Public Service company walked in with several light bulbs.

FOUR DOUBTFUL OHIO CONTESTS STILL IN LISTS

Woman Member Given Close Race at Cleveland By Anthony Fleger.

(By Associated Press)

COLUMBUS — Democrats unseated at least three of Ohio's 16 Republican congressmen in Tuesday's election for 22 district seats and two at-large.

Republicans had won nine positions and were leading in three others. Democrats captured 11 and were leading in one.

Stephen M. Young, who resigned from congress in 1936 in a futile try for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination, led his fellow Clevelander, incumbent - Republican L. L. Marshall, for one of the at-large seats. Republican George H. Bender, party chairman in Cleveland, won re-election to the other.

Ohio's only congresswoman, Mrs. Frances P. Bolton, and two other Republican incumbents, Charles H. Elston and William E. Hess, led in the 22nd, first and second districts, respectively.

Anthony A. Fleger, only Democrat to represent the 22nd, was giving Mrs. Bolton a close race in the district which usually is dominantly Republican. Elston was pressed closely by Joseph A. Dixon. Fleger and Dixon served in congress from 1936-38. Hess battled a newcomer, James E. O'Connell.

Another newcomer, Greg Holbrook (D), unseated Rep. Harry N. Routzohn (R) in the third district and two former congressmen beat incumbent - Republicans Jim Seccombe, 16th, and Earl R. Lewis, 18th.

The congressmen making successful comebacks were William R. Thom, 16th, and Lawrence E. Imhoff, 18th. They previously served one term after being elected with Dixon and Fleger in the 1936 Democratic landslide.

All incumbents except James G. Polk (D) in the sixth district and Dudley White (R) in the 13th sought re-election. Former Common Pleas Judge Jacob B. Davis (D) will succeed Polk and former State Sen. A. D. Baumhart, jr., got White's place.

LEWIS SILENT ON ABDICATION

Aides Insist He'll Quit as CIO Chairman at Nov. 8 Convention.

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON — Chairman John L. Lewis of the Congress of Industrial Organizations today withheld comment on the outcome of the presidential elections which probably will end his reign as CIO chieftain.

Lewis 10 days ago denounced President Roosevelt's third-term candidacy, describing him as an "erratic, war-mongering politician" and staked his CIO leadership on the election of Wendell L. Willkie.

Appealing to labor to support his stand, he said that Mr. Roosevelt's re-election would "mean that the members of the Congress of Industrial Organizations have rejected my advice and recommendation."

"I will accept the result as being equivalent of a vote of no confidence," he added, "and will retire as president of the Congress of Industrial Organizations at its annual convention."

The convention will be held in Atlantic City on Nov. 18. Lewis' aides insisted that the CIO leader would fulfill his promise at that time.

Mrs. Ralston, 69, Succumbs While On Visit to Farm

Mrs. Mae Ralston, 69, residing at 264 South Main street, was found dead yesterday afternoon in the barn on her farm on the Ontario-Shelby road.

Mrs. Ralston, who was the widow of the late Ezra Ralston, Mansfield real estate agent, lived alone and frequently went to her farm. Yesetrday she was driven to the farm by Charles Yuncker, 393 Wayne street.

She walked around by herself while Yuncker talked with the tenant and when he was ready to return to Mansfield he could not locate her. Yuncker found her in the barn, dead.

Coroner Hugh C. Winbigler said death was due to a heart attack.

Mrs. Ralston was born June 18, 1871, near Mansfield, and had spent her entire life in this community. She was a member of the Ontario Community church. Surviving are a brother, Edgar Aten of Lexington, and two sisters, Mrs. J. H. Stoller of Galion, and Mrs. J. F. Grimshaw of Woodridge, N. J. The body was removed to the Wappner funeral home pending funeral arrangements.

SAYS RATIONS AIDING HEALTH

NEW ORLEANS —(U.P.)— David John Rodgers, British consul, sees the English people growing more healthy on wartime rations.

"We have always eaten too much," Rodgers said. "Food rationing is not only conserving food, but is rectifying the English diet. Now we are learning moderation in food. I think it is unlikely that when the war is over the English people will go back to their classic British breakfasts and heavy lunches. The afternoon tea custom may also disappear.

"The rationing plan was put into effect not so much because there is a scarcity of food in England," the consul explained, "but because we want to build up a reserve."

Big Electric Appliance Festival Opens Tomorrow Noon

Crowds Will See New Lines of Merchandise During 3-Day Exhibit

Homemakers of Mansfield who are looking for ways to lighten their daily tasks and make themselves more efficient as well as those who are alert to the latest trends in home decoration will be flocking to the Electrical appliance festival which opens tomorrow at noon in the quarters above 54 North Main street.

There, from Thursday through Saturday, they will see the latest innovations being exhibited by local dealers and twenty nationally known manufacturers.

The festival will be open on Thursday and Friday from noon until 9 p. m. and on Saturday from 9 a. m. until 9 p. m.

Practically every electrical appliance ever devised to save effort and time for homemakers, and to make it possible for them to have more leisure for fun, friends, and family will be on display. Many of these appliances will be entirely new to homemakers, and many of the displays will be unique.

Tropical Setting Featured.

One of the unique displays will be a faithfully reproduced tropical setting which is said to be so realistic that it makes you want to head for the South Seas. To make this scene even more dramatic, a live model, in a bathing suit, will bask in the artificial sunshine that will be provided by a large array of sunlamps. This display will serve to remind Mansfielders that long, dark Winter days are ahead, and that health must be guarded with care when Summer sunshine is not present to supply the greatly-needed vitamins which play such an important part in keeping human beings healthy and happy. This tropical display will emphasize how easily Summer sunshine can be reproduced artificially in the home. So if you want a good coat of tan this Winter, be sure to look up the winsome miss in the bathing suit and let her explain how easily you can have one, sun or no sun.

The sunlamp is only one of the many health-protecting appliances that will be on display. There will be new and different electric room heaters that will keep baby warm during the bath, or will take the chill off the room for grandma. There will be warming pads with built-in thermostatic controls. And there will be lighting equipment that plays such an important part in conserving energy and protecting one of our most priceless possessions, our eyes.

Cooking Demonstrations.

One feature of the Festival that is certain to attract many homemakers will be the large number of cooking demonstrations that will be carried on.

There will be expert home economists from many companies who will prepare everything in the line of food stuffs from single casserole dishes to complete dinners. Much of this cooked food will be given as prizes in various unique contests of skill which have been devised to make the Festival a festival in spirit as well as in name.

These home economists are truly expert dieticians and will be able to give homemakers many hints on how to make meals more healthful and well-balanced, as well as better tasting and more interesting to look at.

Recipe Booklets Given.

So that homemakers can really carry out the many suggestions they will receive at the Festival many recipe booklets, cook books and other literature full of suggestions on homemaking will be given away free at the various booths.

Onet of the finest cook books of its kind ever produced, "Meals Go Modern Electrically" will be given to the first 200 homemakers who request it at the registration desk, according to sponsors of the Festival. This book, written by leading home economists and dieticians from all parts of the country, and which reproduces in full color many delicious foods, will prove a gold mine of ideas for the fortunate homemakers who are among the first 200 to visit the Festival.

Other cook books and free light bulbs will be given away along with several hundred dollars worth of prizes in merchandise through numerous contests.

Free 100-Watt Bulbs.

In order to determine the use of various electrical appliances in Mansfield homes, the electrical dealers sponsoring the Festival are asking visitors to fill out a simple Electrical Appliance Survey form at the registration desk. This form simply lists the many different kinds of electrical appliances found in homes, and registrants are asked to check which ones they have in their own homes an dhow many of each. For example, how many floor lamps, how many radios, etc. So check the electrical appliances in your home before visiting the Festival so that you can fill out your form and get your free 100-watt light bulb.

Show Features Seashore Scene With Living Model

Electrical Appliances Festival Features Seashore Exhibit—If you're worried about the Winter winds, and about the colds and flu that they bring, be sure to see the seashore exhibit at the Mansfield Fall Electrical Appliance Festival which opens tomorrow in the rooms above Kibler's, 54 North Main street. The Mother and child in the picture above, taken at a similar exhibit, a short time ago, are basking in artificial sunshine, and a similar Festival display will show you how you can obtain all the health-giving rays of the sun by artificial means. And, oh, yes, there will be a live model to demonstrate how you can secure a perfect sun tan in the privacy of your home.

FUNCTIONAL PLANNING MAKES KITCHEN MORE LIVABLE SPOT

Every woman knows the value of planning her day's work. The more she must accomplish between daybreak and bed time, the more necessary it is that she take a few moments to map out her program for the day. Otherwise there are many minutes lost both morning and afternoon, and when night comes, important tasks are still unfinished.

If it is worth while to plan each day, how much more important to plan the savings which can be made to occur every day throughout the year and each day for many years to come. That is the basic reason for kitchen planning. If, at the cost of a few hours of careful planning she can rearrange her kitchen to save time, steps and labor every day for the rest of her life, isn't she wise to do that planning now?

Reduces Drudgery.

This new science of kitchen modernizing is nothing more than the rearrangement of the kitchen with efficient present-day electrical equipment in such a way as to give the housewife less drudgery and greater satisfaction, comfort and convenience in her kitchen, and more free time to devote to her family, friends, and social pleasures.

The first principle, then, is to consider the three functions which her kitchen should fulfill, and arrange her kitchen equipment so that these three things can be carried on with the least possible fatigue and effort. The three functions are: (1) food storage and preparation; (2) diswashing and waste disposal; and (3) cooking and serving.

Food, as it comes into the house, must first be stored where it will keep fresh until it is needed. The place to keep it should be near to the door through which the food is delivered from the store. To keep food fresh and wholesome a constant temperature below 50 degrees is required. So the electric refrigerator should be placed near the delivery door, and the kitchen planned from that point.

Preparation Table.

Next to the refrigerator place the food preparation counter or table, with plenty of cupboard space above and below for storing utensils, non-perishable and packaged foods. Thus the housewife can prepare her food for cooking and reach into the refrigerator for butter, milk, eggs or other food supplies without moving more than a step from where she is working.

Beyond the preparation table comes the sink and dishwasher. Thus if she must wash vegetables or needs water for the saucepan, the water supply is as close and convenient on one side as the refrigerator is on the other. And dishes soiled in mixing batter or in any other part of food preparation can be placed in the sink or electric dishwasher without extra steps, and are out of the way and ready to be washed when the time comes. Sinks now can be equipped with an electrical disposal unit which grinds kitchen waste to a pulp and passes it down the drain pipe in such a manner as not to clog the drain pipe.

Vital Sequence.

From the sink it should be only a step further to the electric range, which would be close to the door leading to the dining room. If this sequence is followed, it makes little difference whether the kitchen is planned along two walls in an L-shaped arrangement, or on three walls in the form of a U. With a modern automatic electric range the housewife may then pop the whole meal into the oven and leave the kitchen or house until meal time.

When it is time to serve the meal it takes only a few minutes to remove her well-cooked dinner from the range, and she can have it on the table before her hungry family in a jiffy. With an adequate supply of hot water from her automatic electric water heater, the task of finishing the day's work in the automatic dishwasher afterwards takes but a few moments, and her kitchen day is over without a trace of the back-breaking drudgery which usually goes with the old-fashioned kitchen.

NEW COFFEE MAKERS CONTROL BREWING SO EACH CUP'S RIGHT

Little similarity can be detected between a half-breed Brazilian peon, laboring deep in a tropical jungle, and a charming young American housewife, coming home from an afternoon of bridge. But actually both have one great taste in common—they both love a good cup of coffee.

Perhaps the young American housewife would be shocked to learn that many Brazillians drink as many as forty cups of coffee a day—when her daily average is probably somewhere around four or five.

The reason for this is not hard to find. In all probability each one of her cups of coffee is the best that man has yet been able to produce. It is fragrant, clear, and mellow. Each drop is more enjoyable than ten cups of the muddy, bitter liquid the Brazilian is forced to drink.

Equipment Counts.

Better coffee? Not at all—but MUCH better equipment for coffee making.

Because if our charming young American homemaker is as up-to-date and as critical of her home appliances as we are sure she must be, there can be NO DOUBT that she brews her coffee in a glass coffee maker.

The new glass coffee makers are the peak in scientific homemaking—in gracious living — in mealtime pleasure. A patented spring tension filter guarantees a clear, light brew, with all the grounds taken out, and all the goodness left in.

The "self-timing" stove provides scientifically exact control of the brewing so that each cup will be just strong enough and no stronger. Thermostatic temperature control eliminates the "heating-up" problem—the brewed coffee is maintained piping hot in any quantity for any length of time without the slightest loss of flavor. Pyrex glass in every unit assures the greatest heat-resisting power that money can buy in any glass.

As our clever young American housewife pours coffee at breakfact, luncheon, dinner, or at any other hour of the day or night—she KNOWS that she is serving the best coffee that can be made.

BATTERY BIKE

Inventor Seeks to Aid Paris Transportation Problem.

PARIS—(AP)—A bicycle powered with a storage battery motor is the latest contribution to the transportation problem here.

The motor, placed on the front wheel, gears directly to the tire. The two batteries are fixed over the rear wheel and the whole outfit weighs about 15 pounds.

The inventor believes it will maintain a speed of about 16 miles an hour. Batteries may be electrically recharged at home at a cost of one cent and can be used for 10,000 miles.

DUSTLESS FURNISHINGS, RUGS MAKE HOME MORE HEALTHFUL

Until recent years, dust was regarded as annoying, but hardly harmful to human beings. But as any class in high school science knows, an amazing variety of bacteria can be identified in the dust taken from rugs. Much of it is harmless, but it may also contain definitely harmful germs as well as that.

If you think of a modern vacuum cleaner merely as a machine that has to be run across your rugs every once in awhile to remove surface lint and litter, perhaps you will be surprised to find that it is giving you far more than the service which you expect of it.

If yours is a modern vacuum cleaner with a motor-driven brush, its power to clean goes far below the actual surface of your rug. As every maker and seller of rugs knows, the surface of your rug consists of millions upon millions of light, delicate fibres standing on end, held together by a woven base. When dust, dirt and particles of hard grit get down between these fibres, they tend to go down deep to the rug base.

With every bit of motion on the top of the rug, the fibres are pressed down against each other, causing a rubbing action. That is normal rug wear. If particles of dirt and grit are embedded in the rug base, the wearing action is just what you would expect if you were to wash a pair of silk stockings with a handful of sand.

Rug Pile Vibrated.

Motor-driven brush vacuum cleaners vibrate the rug pile as they travel over it, shaking or vibrating these bits of embedded dust and grit away from their lodging places. As they move, power suction lifts this dirt up and out of the rug into the dust bag.

By removing this dust and grit, your vacuum cleaner not only gives you more beautiful rugs, but it actually prolongs their life.

Perhaps you have a vacuum cleaner, and are unable to tell whether or not it is efficient enough to do your daily cleaning with the thoroughness you expect of it. Then, try this simple test which you can make for yourself on the parlor rug. Spill a spoonful of salt or soda on the rug, and rub it into the rug with the tip of your shoe. Rub it in well. Then bring your vacuum cleaner slowly up to it.

If the particles do not seem to jump right out of the rug and begin to dance on its surface, and a clean path is not left behind your cleaner, there is good reason to suspect that your vacuum cleaner is not giving you the satisfaction and the service which you have a right to expect, and which your home needs for cleanliness, economy and sanitation.

As every housewife knows, there is a great deal more to home cleaning than just the cleaning of rugs and the floor area. Until just a short time ago, the old dust rag flourished, its apparent purpose being to dislodge the dust from the upper dirt zone of the room, and cause it to fall on the floor, where the vacuum cleaner could get it once and for all. Unfortunately, this method served more to stir up dust and move it from one place to another than it did to remove it.

Portable Cleaners.

Realizing the need for effective vacuum cleaning in many places in the home where it would be impossible to use a floor-type cleaner, engineers and home economists devised two types of portable vacuum cleaners to perform this cleaning.

One type of hand cleaner is almost a miniature model of the larger floor-model cleaner, complete to the motor-driven brush. With its "suitcase" handle, it is easy to use on upholstered furniture and drapes, and in a score of household cleaning jobs.

There are, of course, a number of difficult locations to reach in any room which can be cleaned only by powerful suction. A floor-model cleaner is too heavy and cumbersome to reach high into the upper dirt zone—above the baseboard, and in the "living space" of the room. A busy housewife who has drapes, moldings and many odd places to clean can hardly get her work done with complete efifciency and speed with a floor cleaner alone, for this type of cleaner is built to work in the lower dirt zone—on the floor.

"Cylinder" Cleaner.

A featherweight, "cylinder" type cleaner has been developed for just this purpose. It is a straight-suction type of cleaner, designed to remove every kind of dirt which can be removed by suction alone. It cannot be expected to clean rugs, which must have the vibra-sweep cleaning action.

Designed for this above-the-floor cleaning, its design making it possible for any woman to reach every part of a room with the proper cleaning tools without the necessity of having to stand on chairs or stepladders in order to reach even the most inaccessible corners.

Unusually versatile, it reaches high to clean moldings, and goes down into the deep, tight crevices in upholstered chairs. Even such difficult cleaning problems as light, thin lampshades of silk can be cleaned by its combination of gentle brushing action and powerful suction.

Modern home cleaning is no longer a difficult task when modern vacuum cleaners work in partnership, each in its own specialized job.

Salmon have been found in waters ranging in temperature from freezing to 70 degrees.

Clock Winding Made Unnecessary

One of the best ways to start the day wrong is not to awaken on time because someone forgot to wind the alarm clock the night before.

The extra moments of slumber may be enjoyed, but for some reason or another that always seems to be the time that the collar button pops off, or the shoe lace breaks, or some other tragedy of equally major importance occurs. Hair gets snarled up, faces get nicked with razors, and mouths get burned in trying to gulp a cup of steaming coffee on the run.

And the net result usually is that you are late anyway.

Only One of 16 New Models

Featured Item In Westinghouse Line

A fully automatic "pop-up" toaster, which is thermostatically controlled and silent, is one of the feature items in the 1941 Westinghouse line of appliances. There are 31 items in the line.

The new toaster, which may be set for light, dark, or medium degree of browning, makes two evenly-browned pieces of toast at one time. The current is turned on when the bread is placed in the toaster wells and a lever pressed down. The toast pops up when it is done to the desired brownness, due to the accurate thermostatic control, and the current automatically shuts off.

If desired, the toast may be kept in the wells by means of a Melba toast setting, which shuts off the "pop-up" feature.

The new Westinghouse appliance line includes three other toasters, two of them with a signaling feature which rings a bell when the toast is ready. Other items in the complete 1941 Westinghouse appliance line are:

Two sandwich grills, one fully automatic with a heat control which maintains desired cooking temperatures, for high, low, or in-between heats. This has an easily-visible signal light which tells when the selected temperature is reached. The other grill is similar but does not have the automatic feature. Both can be used for waffle-making by using accessory grids.

Three waffle bakers, one of them a twin baker which will make either one or two waffles at a time. Heat indicators on each grid tell when the correct baking temperature is reached. The other models are round bakers, one of them automatic, with a signal light which shows when to pour in the batter and when to take the waffle out.

Two coffee-makers, one of 10-cup capacity and the other of eight-cup. Four coffee percolators, ranging from a deluxe 10-cup chrome-plated copper model to a three-cup aluminum model.

Three new heating pads, one of which is equipped with four separate thermostats to give positive temperature control. All are approved by Underwriters' Laboratories.

Other items in the appliance line are two hotplates, which provide electric surface cooking by plugging in to any outlet; a room heater with a 14-inch chrome reflector; four irons, led by the stream-line adjust-o-matic iron, of which more than one million are now in use; two roasters, the new Westinghouse Roaster-Oven with time-temp shelf, which was introduced early in 1940, and the 16-quart standard roaster.

MANY ACCIDENTS ARE TRACED TO POOR LIGHTING IN HOMES

It is startling when you read that 18 per cent of the accidents in industrial plants result from defective vision or inadequate lighting.

It would be startling, too, if one had a way of knowing just how many accidents occur in the homes of this country every year from similar causes. The number is, of course, impossible to estimate, because such accidents do not have to be reported, as they do in industry.

How many of us have not, at some time or other, bumped into a door, table, or other obstruction when we have had to step from a well-lighted room into a dark room, simply because the light switch was in an inconvenient place.

Eye Must Readjust.

The eye, you know, has to readjust itself when we look from a brightly lighted area to a dark area. It doesn't take long for that readjustment to occur, but in that instant of temporary "blindness" accidents often happen.

Then, too, grownups as well as children, are very often thoughtless when putting things "out of sight." Too often we put something on the cellar stairs, fully intending to carry it to the basement at a later time—then forget all about it, with the result that if we step onto those stairs in the dark, the stage is all set for a serious accident.

The same is true of attic stairs, or the back porch, or in many other places around the house.

Lighting for safety is as important around the home as it is in a factory. It means enough lights in enough places. And it means being able to turn those lights off and on from convenient, easily reached places.

There is no reason why you shouldn't have light switches located at each entrance to a room.

Small Lights Used.

In many of the newer homes small, low-voltage lights are being installed in the hallway baseboards near the floor. These can be burned all night for as little as 10 cents a month per lamp—small insurance against accident should a night emergency arise.

The front porch should be lighted so that you can easily and instantly recognize your callers. But too many times the lights are so placed, or are so dim that this cannot be done.

A light over the garage that can be turned on and off from the house will not only warn prowlers away, but is a decided convenience.

Lights over ranges and sinks prevent burns and broken dishes. And the fruit closet and coal bin most certainly should have their own lights.

These are only a few suggestions for lighting for safety in the home. There are many other places where another light, or a brighter light, or another convenient wall switch will do a real job in the prevent of accidents in your home.

STEADY TEMPERATURE HELPS RESTFUL SLEEP, CUTS COLDS

The "cold" season will soon be with us.

Scientists tell us that varying weather conditions are unusually hard on the system. We dress for a cold day, and it turns warm at noon. We go to bed at night with a minimum of bed covers over us, and it turns cold before morning.

These rapid changes upset our systems, and unless we are careful we become susceptible to colds, neuralgia, and other disagreeable illnesses.

Because it is difficult to outguess the weather, the important thing to do is to watch carefully for the first slight symptoms of trouble, and then take the necessary precautions to ward off the illness.

It is always well to consult your physician when you feel the aches and pans of grippe and similar diseases coming on. And, of course, a lot of sleep is one of the best means of building up the resistance of the body so that it can throw off the infections.

The important thing, however, is that this sleep be restful, and relaxing, so that nature has a full chance for the important rebuilding process. And cold beds are was the worst enemy of resting sleep.

Heating Pad Helps.

An electric heating pad, with its even, restful warmth, and its thermostatic control, will make the bed comfortable and warm on the coldest nights.

These handy little pads are provided with switches which allow you a choice of three to six heats, so that you can have a lot of warmth when you first go to bed, then can turn it down to one of the lower heats to provide just the degree of warmth you desire to keep the bed comfortable all through the night.

For aching muscles, toothache, upset stomach conditions and similar troubles, the gentle warmth of the heating pad brings about a relaxation that relieves the pain, and induces restful sleep. The pads are soft, and take up little space, and because they are flexible they can be wrapped around the aching muscles, or placed comfortably against the troublesome jaw.

If there is a baby in the home that has his afternoon nap on the porch, or before an open window, the safe electric heating pad will guard him against chill and cold.

Be particularly careful of your health during the variable weather conditions of this time of the year. It is wise to provide the home with the means of taking the necessary precautions that will, in a large percentage of the cases, ward off the uncomfortable and unnecessary illnesses which come upon us with so little warning at this variable season of the year.

New Blower-Filter Units Make Work Easier For Women

"Man works from sun to sun, but woman's work is never done." Somehow this smacks of that generation-ago period when nobody concerned himself overmuch with the problems of housework, except the housewife herself. Today we're having to change this saying, for at least, if men are working from sun to sun a good many of them are busy at the devising of ways and means for shortening women's working hours.

All the mechanized appliances that take the drudgery out of cooking, washing clothes, sewing and housecleaning chalk up a good many points in men's favor.

And now just as we are really getting used to many of these, along comes man's inventive genius with a plan that is claimed makes housecleaning practically unnecessary. They call it air-conditioning. That means instead of just letting air seep into the house through windows, doors and cracks, it is conducted through in controlled fashion, so to speak. Moreover, before it is actually circulated through the rooms, it is cleaned.

Many home owners who have installed blower-filters in air-conditioning systems have replaced the filters in three months' time, which means that the dirt was successfully caught in these traps instead of in human lungs

Do you see the moral? If curtains, furniture and walls need to be cleaned but once in three or four years and the daily task of dusting and mopping is almost eliminated, isn't the housewife closer to reaching a "sun to sun" working day?

Provides 'Florida Tan' for All

A sun lamp in the home guarantees a health tan all winter for every member of the family.

Sun Lamps Are Aid To Health

Winter months are months when we must be particularly careful of our health. Sickness has a tendency to increase during the cold weather days.

This is due in a large part to the fact that we are dependent on man-devised means of keeping healthy and cannot rely on natural helps.

Winter days are the shortest of the year—in the length of the daylight and more particularly in the number of sunshine hours. For five months we enjoy an average of only three hours a day of sunshine. During December the average is less than two hours a day.

And in addition to the lack of sunshine, we go into our homes, shut everything up tightly to keep out the cold air and in so doing we deprive ourselves of fresh, pure air—air that is properly humidified, circulated and purified.

Fortunately science has made great strides during recent years, and it is now possible for us to reproduce the healtaful summer conditions in our homes at will.

Summer Sunshine.

Summer sunshine keeps us healthy because certain rays from the sun activate the vitamin D which our skin contains, which in turn regulates the lime and phosphorus ratios of our blood. When these chemical elements in our systems are properly balanced our teeth are healthier, our bones calcify more readily, our heart rhythm is maintained properly and rickets can be prevented in children.

Sun lamps have been perfected which reproduce these valuable rays of the Summer sun. They are as safe as sunlight, and with them the rays that activate the important vitamin D supply in our skin, can be turned on whenever you wish.

We are apt to forget that ordinary window glass prevents the valuable rays from the sun from reaching our bodies, even is we sit in the direct rays of the sun during the few short winter hours of sunshine. So practically the only way we can obtain these health building rays is by artificial sunshine.

If we add to this scientific achievement the health benefits of proper humidification, circulation and purification of the air in our homes with one of the modern blower-filter units, we can produce climatic conditions within our homes and places of business that will go far toward preventing many of our winter illnesses that are so common at this time of the year.

Tucson, Ariz., claims to have been the first city in the United States to establish a municipal airport.

Reading In Bed Widely Popular

A great many people—more than you think—are readers in bed. This fact was revealed recently by scientists who conducted a survey for a manufacturer of indirect Wallamps.

On the basis of this house-to-house survey, approximately 40 per cent of all the Wallamps bought by the public are being used over the bed, and most of these are used for reading.

This trend is explained in part by the growing popularity of indirect lighting. Now virtually demanded by buyers of table and floor lamps, indirect reflectors are now standard equipment on pin-to-wall lamps as well.

Handy Switch.

The luxury of handy, indirect light over the bed is augumented by another new Wallamp convenience—an easy-to-reach pull chain switch that eliminates groping.

Pull chain switching has come into use only recently, with the invention of an ingenious little device that holds the Wallamps rigidly in place on the wall. There's no danger now of a sudden jerk or push toppling the lamp off the wall—it's safely locked in position.

The survey further points out that Wallamps are being used everywhere in the modern home, in addition to the widely favored over-the-bed location.

In the living room or den, Wallamps are hung in whatever position is handiest for reading or writing. In dining rooms and breakfast nooks Wallamps are often chosen for they don't require any table space—you can hang them on the wall at any desired height so that the light is convenient yet out of the way.

These factors have also prompted many people to choose Wallamps for hallways, kitchens, laundry rooms, sunporches, etc. In fact it would be hard to think of any spot in the home where Wallamps aren't usable. Their popularity has grown so rapidly that thousands of lamps of this type are purchased by the public every month.

Freshman Says German Torpedo Made Him Tardy

HASTINGS, Neb.—(U.P.)—Konrad Kingshill had a new excuse when he registered late for classes at Hastings College.

Konrad, German exchange student and Nazi refugee, left Liverpool, on the Dutch ship Volendam in late August. The second night at sea the ship was torpedoed.

Kingshill, with seven other Germans, was imprisoned in Scotland after being rescued by a Norwegian boat. Four days later he was released and in two weeks Konrad boarded another ship.

He said his only regret in registering late was he missed freshman initiation.

Strained Eyes Cause Energy Loss

Do you ever go to sleep reading in your favorite chair after dinner? If you have, have you ever blamed it on the fact that you've eaten too much? That, of course, might be the reason, but the chances are that insufficient light has been at least a contributing cause of your sleepiness. Scientists have proven that straining eyes under inadequate light is one of the most frequent causes of loss of energy. The two photographs above and below dramatize well the incorrect and correct way of lighting a room. You will note in the photograph below that a sight-saving three-way lamp has been placed beside the reading chair; that inexpensive silver bowl lamps with inexpensive shields have replaced the bare, glaring lights on the ceiling, and you can see how an additional lamp at the far end of the davenport helps to brighten the room. The telephone table light in the hall is a helpful addition. Such simple changes are quite inexpensive, but do much to improve the general appearance of a room and to conserve the eyesight of the family.

Artificial Light Permits Winter Flower Raising

If you would like to be able to gather a bouquet of Phlox, Begonias, Snapdragons, Calla Lillies and other summer flowers in the middle of winter, from plants raised in your own home, science tells us that you can with the aid of artificial light.

We have known for some time that plant growth was affected by the number of hours of sunlight each day. But it is only comparatively recently that horticulturists have determined that light produced by an ordinary electric light bulb has an almost startling effect on plant growth.

Experiments at one of our large universities showed that pansies, which were subjected to artificial light after daylight had disappeared, produced an average of 13.3 blossoms per plant, while plants which received only the daylight produced only 1.8 blossoms per plant.

In the same manner, aster plants receiving supplementary artificial light produced 86 per cent more blooms per plant.

Since most of these experiments were conducted with a view of assisting the commercial flower grower many flower lovers are not aware that by supplying their home potted flowers with an average of four or five hours of artificial light every day, in addition to the daylight, many plants heretofore considered only summer blooms can be raised successfully in the winter time.

Respond Well.

Some of the plants that have been found to respond well to artificial light treatment, in addition to those already mentioned, are the African Violet, Geranium, Tulip and Floxinia, as well as a long list of foliage plants.

It is well to bear in mind, of course, that there are other factors that affect plant growth indoors. These are temperature, humidity, the presence of gas fumes in the air, proper watering, and similar factors.

With ordinary attention to these details, however, it is possible to produce many beautiful blooms in your own home by simply giving your plants the benefit of sufficient artificial light.

To make it easy to provide this light, there are many types of portable floor and table lamps which are provided with brackets for flower pots. The presence of the flowers does not affect the utility value of the lamp for reading or other tasks, and does add a decorative touch that is much to be desired.

NEED FOR NATIONAL AND HOME DEFENSE STRESSED BY GARDNER

Need for national and home defense was emphasized in a talk given by R. B. Gardner, past state commander of the American Legion, at Tuesday's meeting of the Rotary club, held at the Mansfield-Leland hotel.

"The only assurance of continued peace in America is to build a national defense strong enough to withstand any assault made upon it," concluded Gardner, after reviewing the occurrences leading up the present situation in Europe.

Change of the American Legion attitude of strict neutrality in 1939 to the recommendation of "all possible aid to England," made at the 1940 national convention, was explained as meaning that present belief of the Legion is that giving aid to Great Britain is intended to make it possible for that nation to "hold the line" until the United States is ready to adequately defend itself.

Gardner also told of the need for home defense, during absence of the national guard and reserve officers, and of the steps already taken by the American Legion to provide trained leadership for home defense units.

He also revealed that as a result of the publication of names associated with the Communist party petitions it has been possible for the Legion to build up a card index of active Communists in every community in the state, after weeding out the names of persons whose signatures had been secured by misrepresentation.

Robert M. Lamb was program chairman of the meeting, at which C. G. Hillier, club president, presided.
